City Scholar-Athlete Wins Governor's Medal

A Victoria High School student today was named winner of the Governor-General's Silver Medal awarded for highest marks attained in Grade 12 examinations in B.C. in June.

John Arthur Stewart Smith, rugby and football player, is the sixth Victoria district student in the last seven years to win the medal.

Education Minister Ray Wiliston announced he will receive a Chris Spencer Foundation award of $225, a general proficiency scholarship from the University of B.C. for $175. He also is eligible for a special Chris Spencer Foundation scholarship of $2,000.

Young Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Stewart Smith, 1255 Oscar had the highest standing with 83.4 per cent. Next highest was Tove Leon Rome, of King Edward Senior High School, Vancouver, with 82.4.

Other Greater Victoria award winners are: Sarah Granville Eliot, 1667 Yale Street, an Oak Bay Senior High student, with next highest standing in Greater Victoria; Chris Spencer Foundation Award, $225, and General Proficiency Scholarship of $175.

Ambition Is Doctorate in Physics

Smith, who hopes to become a doctor of physics, marked his 17th birthday June 28. He plans to attend Victoria College and then the University of B.C.

When informed of his awards by the Times, he exclaimed: "I can't believe it!"

The husky Shamrock junior lacrosse team centre, who also plays rugby for Oak Bay Wanderers, is working as an office messenger for the B.C. Electric for the summer months.

He is one honor student who doesn't believe in homework. "I didn't study at home at all last year, until the last few weeks," he said.

"There are too many other things to do." He gave credit to his teachers, and said "they were the reason I made it."

The Vic High student's father

and has not decided what to do when she finishes school, although she hopes to attend the University of Toronto.

Her father, Lieutenant-Colonel W. E. C. Eliot, is a retired British army officer. Sarah was born in England. The family has lived in Oak Bay since 1949.

The Oak Bay Senior High student also gave credit to her teachers, saying "they are very good," and like Smith, didn't do too much homework.

SAANICH CLERK

Valerie Squence, with highest marks in Area 13, was born in Edmonton, the eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John L. Squence. She is working at Saanich Municipal Hall as a clerk during the summer.

Valerie hopes to become a nurse, or to take up medical library work. She plans to attend Victoria College and UBC.

The Royal Oak award winner was in Grade six when the family moved to the Island seven years ago.

She attended Mount Newton until Royal Oak School was built three years ago. Valerie has always had high marks in school work, and is described by her parents as being "a very studious girl."

Her father is in the commercial spraying business, and the family lives on a 100-acre farm.

Catherine Elizabeth Ann Millward, 485 Lambert street, Nanaimo, won a Royal Institution Scholarship of $200 for placing second highest in the province in Grade 13 examinations.

Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Millward, she was born in Edmonton 19 years ago, and went to school in Langford and Esquimalt from 1942 to 1951.

When she moved with her family to Nanaimo, she attended Nanaimo High School.

Her average was 89.3 per cent. She intends to attend the University of Alberta in the fall, with the hope of winning her B.Sc. degree in nursing.

4,000 MEN, PLANES BATTLE FOREST FIRES

TORONTO (BUP)—Approximately 4,000 forest rangers and civilians pressed into emergency service fought 96 forest fires in Ontario today. Sixteen of them were out of control, including a 50,000-acre blaze in the Sault Ste. Marie district, the largest fire in the province.

Fifty aircraft and three helicopters also fought the flames. A United States Forestry Service plane with special water-bombing equipment was dropping water on the Sault fire.

The weather forecasts indicated no break in the warm, dry weather. The fire danger rating was "high to extreme."

Casablanca Simmers Under Armed Truce

CASABLANCA, Morocco (AP)—Comparative calm returned to this North African port city today after four days of bloody rioting between Europeans and Moroccans. Thousands of armed troops patrolled the narrow streets enforcing an uneasy truce between the European colony and the natives.

French officials put the death toll at 64, but other sources estimated the total dead—mostly Moroccans—might run as high as 200.

In the only violence reported on Monday, the bodyguard of a local Arab chieftain was killed by a bomb. The chief's wife was injured.

Both Arab and Jewish shops were closed in the native quarter of the city. Buildings set afire earlier still smoldered.

Police said a number of Jewish women had been attacked and stripped of their clothes by Arab women.

The violent rioting broke out after a terrorist bomb killed seven Frenchmen Thursday night. During Bastille Day festivities on July 14 mobs of European colonists retaliated with attacks on Moroccans and violence spread rapidly.

Hume, Gervin Will Testify Before Probe

VANCOUVER (CP)—Mayor Fred Hume announced today he will testify before the royal commission investigating charges of corruption and laxity in the Vancouver police department.

The inquiry adjourned last Thursday for at least 10 days to await the recovery of Det. Sgt. Len Cuthbert, in hospital with a self-inflicted gunshot wound.

Cuthbert, the key figure in the hearing, is reported in "good condition" in hospital.

Mayor Hume asked council for "leave of absence" from his civic duties during August but said he would make himself available to testify before the royal commission if he was asked to appear.

Monday labor leader R. K. Gervin said he will volunteer to testify before the probe.

Mr. Gervin was accused last week by former detective Jack Whelan of "running a real game," described as one of the biggest "round-the-calendar" gambling enterprises in the city.

$120,000 Bank Hold-Up

GLASGOW (AP)—Four well-dressed bandits seized a money delivery truck parked outside a bank today and made off with about $40,000 ($120,000) in cash. In the bandits' wild escape through Glasgow traffic bags of pound notes spilled from the truck and littered the streets.

Shopkeeper Gladly Gives Ike Credit

GENEVA (UP)—President Eisenhower became the centre of a minor mob-scene in downtown Geneva today when he went shopping for toys for his three grandchildren.

Mr. Eisenhower faced a moment of temporary embarrassment, after making his selections, when he discovered he had no Swiss currency.

The shopkeeper charged the purchases, gladly.

Mr. Eisenhower sped into Geneva from his suburban villa at Crux-de-Genthod for a conference at the American delegation headquarters in the Hotel du Rhone before attending the afternoon's Summit meeting.

He stopped off at a small toy shop on the banks of the swirling green Rhone River in mid-Geneva to "shop for my kids."

Russian Farmers Make Hit in Iowa

DES MOINES (AP)—Twelve visiting Soviet farm leaders set out today for a long cross-country drive across Iowa. At its end there's a country picnic waiting for them.

It's at the farm of Mr. and Mrs. George Hora. This couple, with their two children, occupy 160 acres which they own themselves and from which they reap rich harvests of pork, eggs, corn, oats and hay without any hired help.

Perhaps the most important news out here today is that the Russian agricultural big shots are making a hit.

Delegation leader Vladimir Matskevich has turned out to be an exceedingly able diplomat with a turn for the right phrase at the right time.

CAMERA, ROSES

They presented amidst applause a bouquet of roses and an album to Mrs. Richard L.

The four Des Moines college girls who thought up the idea of painting in Russian a welcome sign for the Russians' arrival at the Des Moines airport Sunday, were presented with bouquets of roses by the visitors.

MOSCOW (AP)—An American farm delegation touring the Soviet Union made its first visit Monday to a model collective farm.

The 12-member group visited Looch, a collective farm 20 miles west of Moscow, where they inspected cattle and feeding methods.

Later, at the Gorky state farm, the Americans were surprised to find women doing a large share of the work in the fields.

'MOST PEACEFUL, SAYS MAYOR

CHIEF JAILED, SHOOTING MARK QUEBEC ELECTION

MONTREAL (CP)—A suburban rural community held a wild and woolly municipal election Monday. The police chief was thrown in jail along with 60 other citizens, newspaper men were manhandled, shots were fired and "special police" cars roared in pursuit of a photographer.

It was a ding-dong battle everywhere but at the polls themselves, where Florian Desmoreaux, one of three candidates, was elected the mayor of St. Leonard-de-Port-Maurice by a shoe-in. St. Leonard, the only rural municipality left on the island of Montreal, has a population of 3,000.

Desmoreaux, apparently mystified by all the tumult and shouting, described the election as "most peaceful."

Police Chief Richard Raymond was arrested by the special constables early in the day on the grounds that he was "partisan" and had disturbed the peace. He was released later. But Raymond was no longer

Ike Makes Direct Appeal To Zhukov to Accept NATO; Promises No U.S. Aggression

(From AP and BUP Dispatches)

GENEVA—President Eisenhower today appealed directly to his old friend, Soviet Defence Minister Georgi Zhukov, to help speed unification of Germany, but Premier Bulganin said the time had not come for unification.

The two leaders expressed their views at the third meeting of the "summit" Big Four conference, which earlier in the day had given top priority to the German problem.

After today's discussion, the Russians proposed that the problem be dropped and that the leaders move on to another question. The next item on their agreed agenda was European security.

They finally decided to let the foreign ministers of the four powers consider the matter Tuesday morning and report back on procedure for continuing the German talks.

Eisenhower had appealed to the Russians, particularly Zhukov, to accept his word as a soldier that the United States would never be a party to an aggression and that Russia had nothing to fear from the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

Bulganin replied that he accepted Eisenhower's words and promises but that since the president had left NATO headquarters some individuals had made statements contrary to his as to the aims of NATO.

Bulganin added: "Conditions are not yet ripe for the reunification of Germany. The task of reunifying Germany must be realized in a different way to that proposed by Britain, and it should be decided in its good time, step by step."

Prime Minister Eden said in the meeting that all of the Big Four had agreed on the principle of German unification but there were differences over timing and method. He quoted from Bulganin's speech Monday to the effect that creation of an effective security system in Europe would establish the necessary precondition for uniting Germany.

Eden said there were different types of security pacts and that the all-European system proposed by Bulganin would take a long time to develop. He suggested that his proposal for a pact of the Big Four plus Germany would provide a quicker and simpler way. That, he argued, would speed the formation of conditions for uniting Germany.

Premier Faure, who served as the chairman today, began the afternoon's discussion with a plea also for German unity in the shortest possible time. A unified Germany is essential, he said, and any unusual delay would mean no unification at all.

Bulganin said that he recognized the importance of German unification but repeated that a united Germany would depend on a Germany free from existing military obligations and a Germany which would not undertake new obligations from the West or with NATO.

Western reaction to Bulganin's reply could not be learned but it had been widely considered that hope for success of the conference hinged upon the extent to which Russia was willing to accept the Western proposals on the German issue.

Bulganin, in his opening address to the conference Monday, had outlined a Soviet plan for European security which would require the West to scuttle NATO—the key to West Europe's defence—in exchange for abandonment by the Communist east of the alliance of Russia's East European satellites.

President Eisenhower told Bulganin there was no justification for any tendency to delay German unification.

Bulganin, in Monday's address to the conference, had suggested that the problem of European security and disarmament should be considered and settled ahead of the matter of German reunification.

It was regarded as a strategic victory for the west when Soviet

REPORT ON RUSSIA TODAY

By RETA MYERS

Victorian, Edwardian Luxury Apex of Taste to Russians

(Reta Myers, well known British Columbia newspaperwoman, was the leader of a party of 11 Canadian newsmen which has just returned from an 11-day visit to Moscow. Mrs. Myers continues a series of articles for the Times on her visit.)

It is hard to get a true perspective on Russia. As I look back on the 11 days I spent in that monument to Communism and try to sort out my impressions, I am faced on all sides with the tremendous impact that their single-mindedness has on the Western viewpoint.

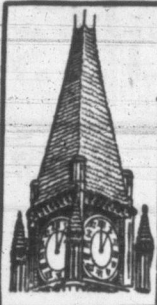

What can you think about a country whose 200 million people are so devoted to an ideal that it allows no deviation from the pattern set by its rulers... who are regimented into a mold where the state and individual is one. Where everything on the surface is smooth and pleasant but where the inscrutable Oriental mind shuts you off from things it does not want to explain?

Looking back on that first night in Moscow, I find that a pattern was laid on which all our visit was based. We were tourists, a new breed of animal to the average Russian, shut off from all contact with the outside world. We were also jour-

No Federal Aid for Toll Bridge Linking Vancouver-Lulu Island

(From CP and BUP Dispatches)

Federal assistance toward construction of the section of the Marpole Bridge between Vancouver and Lulu Island was ruled out Monday night.

"The federal government cannot contribute toward a revenue-producing structure which is purely a provincial structure," Works Minister Winters said during study of his department's estimates.

However, he told Howard Green (PC-Vancouver Quadra) that the government would be prepared to contribute $400,000 toward the cost of a section of the bridge between Lulu Island and Sea Island, site of Vancouver's International Airport, provided it is not a toll bridge.

Mr. Winters said the government originally said it would make a grant of $400,000 towards cost of a bridge from Marpole to Sea Island. However, the bridge now had become two bridges—one south from Marpole to Lulu Island and the other from Lulu to Sea Island. The Marpole bridge was in reality a link in the provincial government highway system.

No Tolls Set by Federal Authorities

"I understand," he said, "that a causeway between the two islands, this was rejected in the interests of navigation and to prevent flooding."

"B.C. then had asked permission to construct a low-level bridge between the islands at a cost of about $1,000,000. The government agreed to the proposal although it had received no specific request from the province to pay part of the cost."

"If it is not a toll bridge, I would be prepared to recommend to my colleagues that $400,000 be allocated for that bridge," Mr. Winters said.

Conference to Talk Highway Problems

Works Minister Winters hinted Monday night that federal assistance to the provinces in highway construction will be discussed at the October federal-provincial conference.

Replying to Harold E. Winch (CCF—Vancouver East), who asked that the federal government accept a share in financing primary highways throughout Canada, Mr. Winters said a public investment program will be discussed at the conference.

He added that he "wouldn't be surprised if the subject" of federal assistance for the construction of highways is discussed.

Mr. Winters noted the federal government is committed to pay half the $193,400,000 proposed for construction of the Trans-Canada Highway. The other half will be paid by the provinces, which are doing the work.

To date, he said, the government has paid more than $66,000,000 on the highway under a federal-provincial agreement scheduled to end Dec. 6, 1956. All provinces except Quebec have signed the agreements.

He said there is need for a national highway policy to help develop Canada's natural resources by opening up new areas for establishment of industries.

The federal agreement must accept responsibility for a major part of the primary highways, beyond that which is given to the Trans-Canada Highway program, Mr. Winch added.

His home province of British Columbia was in particular need of assistance.

For the fourth time this session opposition groups Monday pleaded for a better deal for Canadian war veterans.

The requests were made during study of the estimates of Veterans Affairs Minister Lapointe, approved after a 3½-hour debate. Veterans problems previously were discussed by two House committees and during debate of legislation boosting war veterans allowances 20 per cent.

The minister said the government is thinking of extending war veterans allowances to veterans tion for George Hahn (SC-New Westminster), now in Paris for the NATO parliamentary association meeting.

Works Minister Winters said Monday there were no political reasons behind the transfer of some federal offices from New Westminster, B.C., to Vancouver. He said that it was part of a program of consolidating architectural and engineering branches of his department for greater efficiency.

Mr. Winters was replying to a speech by George Hahn (SC-New Westminster) on July 1. Mr. Hahn said Vancouver newspapers had quoted Liberal Senator Thomas Reid as suggesting the New Westminster offices were closed because the constituency had not elected a Liberal.

The government has no shelf of public works to offset unemployment, Works Minister Winters said Monday night.

He was replying to Howard Green (PC-Vancouver Quadra) who said "We had always understood until last year that his (Mr. Winters) department had a cabinet full of plans for works which would be done when there was unemployment."

Mr. Winters said government policy was to undertake public works when they would contribute most to the economy and employment.

H. W. Herridge, (CCF-Kootenay West) said the number of veterans who must live outside Canada in warm climates for their health is small and payment of allowances would not involve a large sum.

IDEA UNDER STUDY

"The suggestion does deserve consideration and we are looking into it at the present time," Mr. Lapointe said.

He again rejected a suggestion that allowances should be paid to veterans who served only in the United Kingdom during the First World War. The United Kingdom was not regarded as a theatre of war in the 1914-18 conflict.

Mr. Lapointe said the government has not closed its mind to payment of allowances to widows of imperial veterans who have lived in Canada 20 years. The matter was under constant review.

Works Minister Winters indicated Monday night that upkeep and janitor costs help determine whether the government builds or rents a building for its offices.

He said that there is no set policy whereby the government decides to build or rent.

He told Social Credit leader Low that if it builds the government must provide its own janitor and other services. If it rented, the owner provided those services.

Mr. Low said he raised the ques-

PREMIER ON DEBT

'Accountants, Like Lawyers, Can Differ'

Premier W. A. C. Bennett agreed Monday that "accountants can differ, like lawyers" on whether the provincial government's share of school borrowings should be included on the net debt.

"You can argue it," he said, and he added "we will admit it (the province's 100 per cent guarantee of municipal school borrowings) is a new thing."

The premier said, however, his government is "trying" to follow the accounting pattern laid down by previous governments in determining the debt.

Borrowings for school construction are paid off 50 per cent by the province. Many B.C. newspapers, including The Times, contend this 50 per cent, at least, should be shown as a debt of the province.

He said the government "is not trying to fool anyone" by not including the province's share of school borrowings in the debt. "It isn't anything I've done," he said, offering in explanation that the accounting is done by the department of finance.

BATHERS FLEE 10-FOOT BOA

DETROIT (AP)—A boa on the Belle Isle beach broke up bathers' basking Monday.

An unidentified man dropped a 10-foot boa constrictor out of a hamper and let it slither on the sand. Bathers fled.

Police asked the man to pack up his pet and leave. He did. He said he was just giving the snake "an airing."

CRAIGFLOWER CRUMBLING?

Bugs Endanger Oldest School

Victoria's oldest school building, the 100-year-old Craigflower school, is endangered by insect infestation, according to a letter received Monday night by Greater Victoria School Board from provincial architect Willard Ireland.

The old school, now a museum, is built on property owned by Saanich and leased on a 21-year basis to the Native Sons and Native Daughters of B.C.

Mr. Ireland said the job of restoring the building would be expensive and recommended the school be transferred to the provincial government. He said, however, he did not know how this could be accomplished.

The board took no immediate action on the letter. It will await word from the Native Sons.

Most Modern Trucks on any job with the most advanced truck features the industry has ever seen!

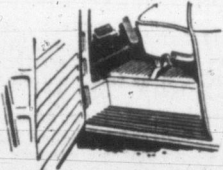

Only new Chevrolet TASK FORCE Trucks bring you all these truly modern design and engineering features today!

They're the marks of a modern truck, and they out-date any make without them!

And they're the money-making, money-saving advantages that ask this question: Can you really afford not to make your next new truck a Chevrolet? Judge for yourself!

Beginning with Work-Styling, an entirely new development in truck design. For the first time in any line of trucks, Chevrolet brings you two styling treatments. Two distinctively different designs—one for light- and medium-duty models, another for heavy-duty jobs—both clean-lined and modern to the smallest detail. Here is styling with a meaning. Styling that's matched to the model and the job.

cushion and harmonizing two-tone inside. Outside, bright metal moldings and new two-tone color options. Custom cabs set whole new standards for comfort and convenience.

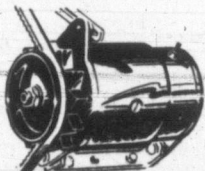

New concealed Safety Steps. Running boards are ancient history now. Chevrolet's new Safety Steps are out of sight with the doors closed. That way, snow, ice or mud can't collect to cause accidents. Safety Steps are lower, too, for easier entrance.

The latest in cab comfort and safety. Inside you can count on the same ultra-modern touch—softer seat action that reduces driver fatigue, a new instrument cluster that can be read at a glance, and more durable construction throughout. The new Flite-Ride Custom cab features the extra comfort of a foam rubber

New panoramic windshield. The windshield alone has 1000 square inches of safety glass to give you a wider, virtually unobstructed view of the road—and there's more glass area all around. A new glass-guard molding completely surrounds the side windows, reducing possibility of breakage. A wide-view wrap-around rear window is available as an extra-cost option.

Fresh air in all kinds of weather. With Chevrolet's new High-Level ventilating system, air is drawn in through louvers at cowl level. That means air is constantly circulated through the cab, regardless of disagreeable weather conditions.

High-Voltage power starts you quicker. You really have it modern under the hood! All New Task-Force engines are sparked by a hefty 12-volt electrical system. Quicker starting, even on cold mornings, is one big advantage. Increased generator capacity is another. The high-compression power of these great valve-in-head engines keeps you running longer between gas stops. Here's performance that cuts operating costs and shaves valuable time from your schedules!

Tubeless tires standard on ½-ton models. Pickups, panels, Suburban Carry-alls—all models in the ½-ton class now come with new tubeless tires. Here's greater protection against blowouts.

Every Power Helper in the book. Power brakes, for example—a big help in reducing driver effort while increasing safety—are standard equipment on heavier models, an extra-cost option on others. The new handling ease of Power Steering, another extra-cost option, cuts turning effort up to 80%. There's new gas-saving Overdrive, as an extra-cost option on ½-ton models... and truck Hydra-Matic—ideal for stop-and-go city hauling—available at extra cost on ½-, ¾-, and 1-ton jobs. They're worthwhile extra-cost helpers that can save you a lot of time and money in the long run.

The New Cameo Carrier. Sports model of the truck field—designed with special jobs in mind! Long and low, with smooth, fleet lines, here's the Custom pickup that may well create a whole new class of truck owners!

And the final touch. Color! New colors and two-tone combinations add the final styling touch to these great new trucks. Your selection is wider than ever before. Choose the color combination that best matches your job, that best calls attention to you and your business. That way you'll be taking full advantage of the advertising value of your new Task-Force model.

One final word. When the time comes to trade in '55 models, the man without a really modern truck stands to take a good-sized loss. Come in and see us soon.

Arbiter Choice Held Clever Manipulation

'Watch Harrison Like a Hawk' Warns Sammon in New Hospital Wing Issue

Appointment of an arbiter to apportion city-municipal shares in a proposed $1,400,000 new wing for Jubilee Hospital was termed "a very clever manipulation" by Esquimalt councillor G. K. Sammon Monday night.

He warned the council the naming of R. A. Robison, a chartered accountant, by representatives of Victoria and the three municipalities at the suggestion of Victoria city council, may mean a prejudice in favor of the city.

"We've got to watch him (Mayor C. L. Harrison) like a hawk," the councillor said. "It's a very clever manipulation."

"Everything gained by the Jubilee is a gain for Victoria," the councillor added. The parties concerned in the local cost of the new wing... Victoria, Esquimalt, Saanich and Oak Bay... could not agree to the suggested schedule of apportionment drafted by the hospital board several months ago.

$325,000 TOTAL
Total community cost in this schedule would be $325,000, with Esquimalt's share set at $31,550, or 9.7 per cent.

Reeve A. C. Wurtele and the municipal solicitor were named to present the municipality's case to Mr. Robison when he begins to hear submissions from the parties.

Council endorsed action of the reeve, acting as Esquimalt representative in earlier hospital talks with the city and municipalities, in agreeing to select

Esquimalt Calls Bids On Hall Job

Tenders were called today for alterations and new construction at Esquimalt Municipal Hall.

Council approved plans and working specifications for the estimated $40,000 face-lifting at Monday's meeting and set July 30 as deadline for bids on the job. November should see completion of a new west wing and renovated existing portion, according to architects Clack and Clayton.

U.K. Unseats Sinn Fein MP Jailed 10 Years

LONDON (Reuters) — The House of Commons Monday declared vacant a seat won in the May 26 general elections by a man disqualified from sitting because he is serving a 10-year prison term for treasonable felony.

The unseated member is 23-year-old Thomas J. Mitchell, now in Belfast jail, who was elected as Sinn Fein candidate in the Northern Ireland constituency of Mid-Ulster.

Mitchell was sentenced for his part in a raid on a British military barracks, in which arms were stolen and five British soldiers were wounded.

Socred Charges Liberal MP Rented to Crown

OTTAWA (CP) — The Mott Electric Co. of New Westminster, B.C., rented a building to the federal government while William Mott was a Liberal member of Parliament. It was disclosed today in the Commons.

Works Minister Winters said the Belyea premises in New Westminster were rented before in 1947, two years before Mr. Mott was elected Liberal MP for New Westminster. The lease was continued by the government throughout his four years in Parliament. Mr. Mott was defeated by George Hahn, Social Credit, in 1953.

Solon Low, Social Credit leader, questioned the propriety of Mr. Mott renting to the government while he was an MP. He referred to the case of J. C. Landeryou and Roy Lee, Social Credit members of the Alberta legislature who resigned their seats when it was found they were renting property to the provincial government.

BOTH RE-ELECTED
Mr. Winters said Mr. Landeryou and Mr. Lee now are in the good graces of the Social Credit party. They were re-elected in the June 29 Alberta election.

Mr. Low said that is not so. The two men had not been re-elected and their candidacy had not been endorsed by Premier Manning.

Mr. Winters said Mr. Mott had not intended to rent the Belyea premises to the government but had reluctantly agreed to do so on the request of the government. The rents at that time were controlled.

He said there is quite a difference between entering into a contract with the government before being elected to the Commons and while being a member.

Strong, United West Essential—Simonds

CAMP GAGETOWN, N.B. (BUP) — No showing of East-West goodwill at the Geneva conference would justify any cutback in the policy of united strength among the Western nations, Lt.-Gen. Guy G. Simonds said today.

Simonds, who will retire as army chief of staff Aug. 31, spoke at a news conference a few hours before he was scheduled to receive a salute from 12,000 troops of the first Canadian division in the greatest military parade in Canada's history.

He said an Allied showing of strength among the Western nations "is absolutely essential," and emphasized that it was only the West's cohesion and determination to resist aggression that made this week's Big Four conference possible.

Simonds predicted that within the next five years new helicopter-type aircraft with greater lifting power and forward thrust would be put into service for quick shifts of troops. He said this method was "infinitely less vulnerable" than truck or rail transport.

Simonds commented that air power was "of vital importance," but added that "I do not believe air power can do the whole business."

"The army is needed to seize, hold and administer ground, which is the only thing that concludes a struggle."

He said Canadian forces were just as advanced as British, American, or Russian, although attempts were being made to reduce the army's administration "tail."

Asked if there should not be greater concentration on building Canadian tank forces, Simonds said:

"There is a tendency to over-exaggerate armor. We have found in the past that there is not enough infantry for the tanks."

He said the great problem facing infantry forces was the simplification of their weapons, and "a lot of study" was being given to preparation of troops for atomic warfare.

"The problem the army faces is that we've got to adapt ourselves without destroying our ability to fight a non-atomic war," he said.

Simonds is rated internationally as one of the most brilliant soldiers this country has produced, but is retiring at 52. The defence department explained that he had served beyond the normal four-year term as chief of staff.

Britons Vote 2 to 1 Against Death Penalty

LONDON (Reuters) — The Daily Mirror says a poll conducted among its readers has resulted in their voting by a 2-to-1 margin in favor of abolishing hanging as a penalty for murder in Britain.

Shortly after the hanging last Wednesday of 28-year-old Ruth Ellis, mother of two children who was convicted of shooting her lover The Mirror (circulation about 4,500,000) published a ballot form asking its readers: "Should hanging be abolished in Britain?"

The result: Against hanging, 24,034; for hanging, 12,966. About 37 women in every 100 were in favor of hanging, compared with 32 men in 100.

VACCINE POLIO CASE CONFIRMED BY OTTAWA

OTTAWA (CP) — The first Canadian case of polio in a Salk-vaccinated child was confirmed today by the Federal Health Department.

However, an official said, there is nothing to be alarmed about in the report that a nine-year-old Weamington, Ont., boy was in hospital at Windsor with polio. Dr. Jonas Salk, the vaccine's discoverer, expected it to be only 60-80 per cent effective.

It takes TCP to get the full power from High Octane Gasoline

Cars being made today are the most powerful ever built. And with this extra power you also get extra economy—more miles per gallon.

The reason for these benefits is that today's engines are high compression engines and make more complete use of the power available in today's higher octane gasolines.

But did you know that the kind of driving most people do most of the time—local driving—can, in a short time, create a condition that offsets the extra power and economy that these engines should get from high octane gasoline.

Why? Because this kind of driving increases the build-up of certain combustion chamber deposits—the root of most power and gasoline waste. And to overcome these deposits you need a gasoline with a special kind of additive.

What happens is this: As your engine warms up, these deposits warm up, too—glow red hot. And these glowing particles act like hot coals—ignite the gasoline mixture ahead of time... before the pistons reach proper firing position. This is called pre-firing and means that power works against you instead of for you.

In addition, these same deposits have another power-wasting effect: They foul spark plugs, causing your engine to miss. Engineers will tell you there's nothing more wasteful of power and gasoline than pre-firing and spark plug "miss."

But there is an answer—there's one high octane gasoline that gives you all the advantages of high octane without the power-crippling effects of these deposits—Shell Premium Gasoline with TCP*.

TCP, the Shell-developed additive, fireproofs the deposits so that they no longer cause pre-firing. No longer can they glow red hot and ignite the gasoline mixture. And TCP stops spark plug "miss," too. Your spark plugs do the job they are supposed to do.

Start getting the full power built into your engine. Get Shell Premium with TCP. It's the most powerful gasoline your car can use!

The Premier's Reply

PREMIER BENNETT'S PUBLIC reply to a recent editorial in these columns was pathetically weak and far below his usual knock-down-and-drag-out standard of controversy.

It was said here that British Columbia lacks a main highway from the coast to the prairies "worthy of the name."

This statement the Premier does not attempt to deny. How can he? The gaps of gravel and potholes between Kamloops and the Alberta boundary, between Grand Forks and Rossland, and even between Williams Lake and Prince George will not be paved by any reassuring government statement.

Mr. Bennett can only retort that "our roads are not perfect" (surely a masterpiece of understatement) and that this is "one reason why the old government was kicked out of office three years ago." As usual, every good thing in British Columbia is credited to Social Credit; every defect is blamed on former administrations.

The fact which Mr. Bennett conveniently forgets is that the preceding administration was making tremendous strides in the construction of a main road system.

He says that "when this Government took office we had no decent highways in the province." What about the Hope-Princeton Highway, the reconstruction of the costly Fraser Canyon Highway, the magnificent highway across Anarchist Mountain, the pavement pushed north from Ashcroft to the Hundred and Fifty Mile Post (and pushed little further north since Mr. Bennett arrived in office) and the John Hart Highway to the Peace River country?

Those roads were built according to an all-over plan, and its purpose was to provide the skeleton of a trunk transportation system even if it meant postponing many desirable local roads.

Today the present Government is building many roads but making scant progress on any one of them. Mr. Bennett says that by 1962 our road system "will compare favorably with any province in Canada." Does this mean that we must wait seven years before a motorist can drive across British Columbia or up north on pavement?

The point made in our editorial was that, for all our expenditure and all Mr. Gagliardi's speeches, we are many years away from a modern system of roads linking our chief centres of population and serving both commercial transportation and the tourist trade. This statement Mr. Bennett has specifically confirmed.

He proceeds to congratulate his Government on spending $209 millions for road construction in four years as against $196 millions spent by former governments in twenty-one years.

If expenditure is to be the gauge no one will attempt to match the achievements of Mr. Bennett's administration. They exceed, on a per capita basis, the expenditures of any province in Canadian history, except those of Alberta.

The real question is not what we are spending but what we are getting for our money. Assuredly we are not getting a trunk road system, nor even the B.C. section of the Trans-Canada Highway even when the Federal Government is contributing half the cost and urging the provinces to speed up this national project.

The reason for this delay is obvious to anyone who has lately motored about British Columbia—the Government has quietly abandoned the over-all plan of its predecessor and is trying for political reasons to spend some money in all districts to satisfy the local voters.

As a result, good roads are certainly being built here, there and everywhere but with yawning gaps between them, and the date of a single transprovincial road indefinitely postponed.

Lowered Sights in China

AT PEKING IN RECENT DAYS delegates to the National People's Congress—Red China's Parliament—have been brought sharply up against the difference between theory and actuality.

Economic progress in that vast country has not been going according to hopes or preliminary plans. As a result the Congress, with delegates from all parts of the nation, has assembled to give consideration to the regime's first five year plan. Though it is in its third year, the blueprint is only now being drawn in what may be final form. And the form is less ambitious than have been its earlier drafts.

Natural disasters, mismanagement in some instances, and the results of inexperience have caused a lowering of sights.

Expenditure estimates for China's textile industry have been cut the equivalent of $360 million. The Ministry of Light Industry has been told to spend 25 per cent less than planned, and a curtailment of 52 per cent has been ordered on the expenditure for public buildings.

In the last-mentioned, cuts of from 35 to 60 per cent have been required on offices, schools and similar structures, and the allocation for housing projects has been slashed 30 per cent.

While these economies are required to permit concentration on heavy industry investment, it is believed that even in this top priority field estimates will have to be lowered.

The picture is not encouraging to Red Chinese eyes. Though the nation may be conditioned to austerity—and its leaders can recall the days when they lived in Yenan caves—the bright promise of the new China shines with restricted lustre. Partly, of course, this is the result of natural disasters in a land where flood and famine are historically familiar. Partly, it may be reasonably assumed, it is the result of too optimistic a concept of the powers of a new regime to bring peace and plenty to the people.

Whatever the cause the outcome may be an important factor in Chinese international policy in the immediate future, though whether conditions at home will stimulate an outside diversion or cause a reduction in belligerency to permit concentration on domestic affairs, is a matter of speculation.

The Men Behind the Wheels

THE NEW YORK TIMES RIGHTLY describes as "an alarming situation" the fact that mathematics and the sciences are being badly neglected in the United States educational system. "Only about half of our high schools offer courses in chemistry or physics, and less than five per cent of our high school students study physics," says a Times editorial. Less than a quarter of high school students study algebra, and little more than ten per cent take geometry, the journal adds. And only one in three of the science teachers needed is properly qualified.

In an age in which chemistry, physics and mathematics are the three keys to daily existence, that appears to be a dangerous situation. If man is to manage the tools he has discovered, he must have the knowledge that is necessary. If he is to make further progress in mastering his environment in the way he has chosen—through science—then the theoreticians, the technicians and the engineers must be provided.

Only if the schools give budding mathematicians, chemists and physicists the proper elementary grounding in these subjects can the necessary large body of trained men and women be recruited.

It will be noted that although the United States has been the leader in developing the atomic and hydrogen bombs, and many of the theoretical work and a great deal of the latter practical work was carried out by men from other countries.

England provided a large part of the mathematical background for atomic progress; Austria, Germany, France, Italy and other areas of Europe made their contributions in brains and technique. Scientists from these countries went to the United States to help the atomic war effort. Many of them remained and today they provide a corps of experts in the continuing search for atomic mastery. By all accounts Russia has concentrated the work of Soviet scientists on the atom, with successes that have surprised the West.

All this adds up to the fact that if the United States is to maintain its advance in the age of science it must provide the skilled experts to do it. And, in the present tense state of world affairs, more than mere technical progress depends on it; the military security of the state itself may be at issue.

Comparable figures for Canada as a whole are not available, but the somewhat stricter requirements for compulsory subjects in our high schools ensures that a fair proportion of students become familiar with elementary algebra, geometry and at least one science.

The ever greater complexity of our civilization demands an ever increasing knowledge of "what makes it tick." Without that information, man will become a stranger in the world of wonders he has created, and ultimately perhaps the victim of the powers he has unleashed.

Vandals at Work

IT WAS only on my return home after a long absence, when I skimmed through an accumulation of old newspapers, that I learned of an appalling prospect in Ottawa. They are planning to tear down the old West Block.

Hutchison

You might suppose that this vandalism could be committed only over the dead body of an outraged Canadian people. But the news had caused so little stir in the backwoods of the nation that I heard nothing of it in my travels. I dare say the Government could tear down West, East and Centre Blocks and demolish Parliament Hill entirely without provoking any serious excitement a mile or two from Wellington Street.

The West Block, like all important things in life, is quite crazy. Some forgotten architect with a genius of irrelevance and wild fancy conceived a glorious and stone protuberances in all directions to match the equally bizarre designs of the other two buildings on the hill.

THE Centre Block, home of our first Parliament, was burned one night during the first World War (its outer stone being supported by combustible timbers before the days of steel). The two remaining masterpieces of Confederation remained, the East Block housing the Prime Minister, the Privy Council and the Chamber and the central brains of the state, the West Block providing indifferent accommodation for various other departments which no one can remember.

In our lush times a new building on the Hill may seem a minor project, costing only a few millions or so. The Fathers of Confederation thought they had gone hog-wild when they erected the home of a national Government. George Brown, the canny Scot from Toronto, wrote that the entire revenues of the states could not heat the new buildings which, he said, had been erected a century too soon.

WELL, the state quickly grew up to its buildings and presently had overflowed them in all directions until government is spread over Ottawa and no visitor can possibly find the office he is looking for without the guidance of a taxi driver.

Mr. Robert Winters, the minister of public works, who should know better (coming from the historic town of Lunenburg) apparently has decided to provide still more accommodation by demolishing the West Block and rebuilding it on a larger scale.

In extenuation of this crime against Canadian history it is argued that the new West Block will be a pretty exact replica of the old, with a story or two added and all the modern conveniences.

YOU might as well argue that Westminster, Abbey, Notre Dame, the Kremlin or the White House can be replaced and, indeed, improved by complete reconstruction. Of course they can be replaced by better buildings, architecturally speaking, with automatic heating, air conditioning and offices like an executive suite out of a Hollywood movie. In this process the only thing of value in these buildings will be totally destroyed, as if a man were refashioned by surgeons with a completely new anatomy, minus both heart and memory.

We have pitifully few historic reminders in Canada and, worse, a pitifully small sense of our teeming history. Since our ancestors perforce built of wood in most places, their works have mostly crumbled long since into dust. All the more reason why we should cling to what we have in stone.

IT DOES not matter that some of the stone is badly designed, that modern architects could do much better. A nation is not built of stone, to be sure, but it is built essentially of memories that have more force than any statute law or public policy. The stone laid by ancient, nameless masons long ago and inhabited by the men who made Canada contains the nation's most important asset—its myth.

So far Canadians have been too busy, or say they have been too busy, to think much about these things. Unlike our American neighbors, we are not a historically-minded people.

Their history is no longer than ours is, in fact, two years shorter, if you date them from Port Royal and Jamestown. Nevertheless, when the Americans find their White House decaying they do not tear it down and build a better one. No, they spend many millions in the almost impossible task of preserving the shell of this building while underpinning it with steel. They know what the shell contains and they will never abandon it.

MR. WINTERS, an able young man of practical engineering experience, should remember that the most practical things in any society are completely impractical by any engineer's calculations. There is plenty of room along the Ottawa River for new buildings if they are needed and no excuse for destroying a monument which all Canadians will appreciate and reverence when the youthful nation comes of age.

Goldwin Smith, who regarded the Canadian state as an impossibility, once said that Ottawa was a sub-Arctic lumber village converted by Queen Victoria into a political cockpit. But it has become something much more than that and will loom still larger in the Canadian mind before long. The well-meaning vandals of progress should remember that it belongs to the whole Canadian people, not to the Government or the citizens of the capital.

A Word From Friendly Neighbors

The Christian Science Monitor

Americans have become accustomed to being criticized by Europeans. They have come to discount much of the criticism, sometimes even when it merits attention. What may surprise many of them, however, is that they are now being questioned by their Canadian neighbors, and on some of the same points that have disturbed Europeans.

For example, Canadians now feel it necessary to remind Americans that though both peoples have much in common, they are also different from each other in many ways. And, the Canadians add, they wish to remain different. Here is something that Americans sometimes forget: that for all the virtues in their own way of life, other people may not wish to adopt it, for these others also have ways of life they cherish.

TOO MUCH FOR GRANTED

Non-Americans seem to feel the need of saying these things whenever the likelihood appears that Americans will be stationed in their countries in great numbers. That is the prospect now for Canada, due to co-ordination of United States and Canadian aerial defence.

But this is only part of the story. It is evident from statements by Canadian officials that Washington has been taking too much for granted in the American-Canadian relationship. The assumption that common defence will be worked out with little American-Canadian consultation, along American lines and perhaps co-ordinated under an American commander, has struck some Canadians as overweening. As one of their officials said recently in a public speech, "Our rights as well as our responsibilities must be preserved."

Further dissatisfaction over United States policy arises because of American trade attitudes and the United States agricultural surplus program, which seems to Canadian wheat growers to set up unfair competition. Similarities of speech and daily life as one Canadian has pointed out, may seem to make the two peoples appear more alike than they really are. And what irritates many Canadians, he says, is that many Americans are not even aware of differences.

GENTLE REBUKE This is a gentle rebuke which Americans visiting Canada of having dealings with Canadians can profitably heed. It is a reminder that American attitudes do not always evoke expected responses, partly because they assume too much.

Americans should remember that their country is a colossus. An offer of an embrace from so powerful a figure can look like a threat of extinction to the prospective "embrace." As Americans come to appreciate how very strong they appear to others they will recognize more often the need of utmost tact in dealing with allies.

A word from such a near neighbor and close friend as Canada should find a wide welcome in the United States.

As Our Readers See It

SWELLING CIVIL SERVICE

A recent issue of "Saturday Night" gave some extraordinarily important figures, from the taxpayer's point of view, on the growth of the federal Civil Service between 1939 and early in 1955.

In that period the number of federal civil servants rose from 39,000 to 174,000. That is to say, the service has more than quadrupled in numbers.

"Saturday Night" went on to say: "These huge increases in the number of our civil servants and of our expenditures and taxation, are far out of line with the increase of our population."

I know we have to recognize that the citizens of Canada are calling on the various governments in their country to perform more and more services.

The very fact that this is so, and in many cases quite justifiably so and for the advantage of the citizens, makes it obvious that the larger the Civil Service grows, and therefore the more costly it becomes, the more important it is that it should achieve a high degree of efficiency.

I suggest that this is a matter well worthy of the columns of any newspaper which has the interest of the general public at heart. I appreciate the light your own paper has thrown on matters such as these on many occasions. I believe that large numbers of your readers would wish you to continue to do this, and indeed to throw more light on this important matter.

"CANADIAN CITIZEN."

"HOW DARE HE!"

My Irish temper is rising at the gall of your correspondent Mr. J. Hayes, who says "It is gratifying to see immigrants take an interest in the policies of their adopted country."

How dare he! I am an immigrant and I love Canada and never want to leave here, but if your correspondent thinks that next year when I am due for citizenship I will stand up in Beacon Hill park and talk about the glories of freedom, he is vastly mistaken.

This country is in advance of Europe in many ways, but politically it is at least 40 years behind England. How dare you, Mr. Hayes, think that I would sell my British freedom for a mess of Victorian pottage. In the Old Country our judges are above reproach. Our police, too, not like Vancouver, and our city councils are representative of people in all walks of life, not a few business men who are afraid to say "Boo" to the mayor.

I am here whether Victorians like it or not, and if I can convert them from fascism to democracy, I will do my best to do it. But may I say to Mr. Hayes when he uses the word immigrant he ought to realize that Canada politically has a lot to learn.

I did not come from behind the "Iron Curtain." It seems to me now that I came from a free country to the Iron Curtain. For anywhere that Social Credit is in power is the Iron Curtain in embryo.

D. C. O'CONNELL.

TOURIST ATTRACTION?

One evening about 6.30, after seeing a guest off at the TCA bus depot, I walked to Douglas and Fort streets to take a city bus home. Only two people, both men, were waiting at this corner. While standing a few feet from one, I noticed that he was what is now so nicely referred to as "incapacitated." When I moved a few feet nearer the other party, I discovered that he too was incapacitated. The bus seemed a long time coming. When it finally arrived, two of its passengers were incapacitated. The brewers and liquor vendors seem to be getting results. Are sights like these part of the attraction for tourists referred to by those advocating more liquor outlets? France today illustrates so well the fallacy of the argument that more liquor outlets would lessen drunkenness. Are there soon to be no restaurants left in Victoria which do not display the sign "Licensed Premises" to which one may take a guest?

In referring to drug addiction recently in one of your editorials you advised attacking the evil, not the victim. Why not attack the drink evil at its source? Nationalizing the alcohol beverage trade has been suggested as a remedy so that there would not be an incentive to increase sales as at present under private ownership. The figure given for Canadian annual expenditure in booze is one billion dollars, and for British Columbia in 1954, approximately seventy-two million. One can imagine what that means in demoralization, poverty, traffic accidents and broken homes.

"FOR SANE SURVIVAL"

BAD POET

Members of the clergy are not notorious for the excellence of their lyrical productions. If we except Newman, Faber and some others you can prove this by reference to any hymnal.

Your correspondent who signs himself "Rev." D. C. O'Connell, Vicar of St. David's by the Sea" is not one of the exceptions.

The Davy Crockett doggerel of this priest, appearing in the Times, was very curvy. His attempted satire of the Sacred government was without rhyme or reason. A self-respecting lower-form school-boy would blush if accused of its authorship. Listen to this fine stanza:

"Oh, B.C. is sleeping, but it's not yet dead Social Credit any longer and we'll all go RED."

If your poet is one and the same O'Connell who was raucously vocal during the Library book-burning episode my recollection is that he had already gone the whole way of fellow travellers.

The beautiful refrain "Social Credit ruin of all B.C." is surely an exaggeration and unseemly coming from a member of the clergy. After all Mr. O'Connell might give the present government credit for having so far escaped the charges of nepotism and graft so frequently in bygone years levelled at political machines in this province.

P. J. SINNOTT,
1006 Government Street.

HIGH TIME

It was Edmund Burke who said in a great speech about the horrors of the French Revolution, and speaking with particularity of the Queen of France: "I thought ten thousand swords must have leaped from their scabbards to avenge even a look that threatened her with insult. But the age of chivalry is gone; that of sophisters, economists and calculators has succeeded."

A woman, mother of two children, was condemned to die in England, for shooting the man who jilted her. There had been no appeal, which is so different to any similar or dissimilar murder trials in this province, where it is common practice to have as many as three appeals, and three trials, on technical law.

My comment is about your dramatic headline: "Clemency Refused Blonde Mureddress." I sent to the British Home Secretary a cable, asking for a stay of execution in order to enter an appeal for Ruth Ellis, the jilted mother of two children, who found life too difficult, and perhaps the law too cold and even, as we have heard it expressed sometimes by the men of theology.

Whether this woman is blonde or brunette matters not; that she is a child of God, is very important. From what experience I have had in numerous murder trials, and from what I have learned of the shocking details at an execution, I think it high time for the people of this British Empire to take their firm stand against this obsolescent barbarity.

TRIBUTE TO CHAMBER

Through you I would very much appreciate your thanking the entire Victoria Chamber of Commerce organization which so ably assisted in the negotiations prior to the entry of the Washington State Ferries into the Victoria-Port Angeles service.

I would like particularly to mention the assistance and co-operation so cheerfully given by Mr. Hector Crombie, managing secretary, and also Alderman William Pinfold, Mr. G. F. Dunn and Mr. George Gregory, all members of the Chamber of Commerce, who were present with me during the preliminary negotiations.

All of these gentlemen gave willingly of their own time in the interests of our establishing a ferry service between Victoria and Port Angeles. It was their assistance that enabled us to finally come to a definite agreement and decision to enter this service.

You Need Not Live Out of a Can

THIS is the season when folksy columnists resort to a familiar technique.

They tell their readers that the "little woman" has packed up and gone off on vacation. She has taken the children to summer camp. She has flown to Hawaii on her Sandown winnings. She has gone to London to see the Queen. Or she has headed back east to visit mother on a railroad pass that has been very hard to finagle.

Stott

Anyhow, she's away and the officiated male starts off in a spurious flush of self-importance to live the life of Riley he always figured he could live if the wife were away.

The story is a little tired. The breadwinner finds his wolf-about-town protestations fading to a watery television pink. He moans over his own cookery and the conventional column winds up in a garbage can of empty tins, unwashed dishes, unmade beds and a weak-kneed longing for a return of the spouse.

It's different in our house. The boss has been away with two-thirds of the kids. Number One Girl, who is working, has dubbed in as temporary deputy cook. Number One Girl prides herself on efficiency. The dishes are all washed. Her bed is made, and if another one is rumpled at least the bedroom door is closed and nobody notices.

And Number One Girl has taken Domestic Science. She's improving on it now. Domestic Science teachers, it appears, have a few old-fashioned ideas, like the time it takes to hard boil an egg. If Domestic Science allows 15 minutes for a hard-boiled egg, the modern scientist (feminine adolescent) knows it can be done in 10. So the young scientific mind figures, in the interests of progress, it should not take more than eight. Why not? They have cut the time for the mile to less than four minutes, haven't they?

SOFT-HEARTED EGGS

So we have eight-minute hard-boiled eggs. In our house. And it's just a little unfortunate that eggs in the refrigerator take a while to thaw before they start the boiling process. Still, for something new in salads, you might try an eight-minute egg straight from the ice box. The white is solid after eight minutes' boiling, and who wants a hard yolk anyhow?

Now there's one thing the veteran victim of deputy summer cooks learns at an early age. He shouldn't complain. If he does, he, too, may become a deputy summer cook.

So when the speed-up technique is applied to something other than eggs, he weasels around with cautious advice, or abstract theorizing only.

If his blunted knife just makes a rubbing, friction sound as it passes over the warmed, formerly frozen pork chops, he doesn't come right out and say the meat isn't cooked. He merely goes into a discussion of trichinosis. Then he suddenly remembers he has to move the garden hose and asks the deputy summer cook if she'd mind putting his chops back in the fry pan to keep warm while he goes out to change the sprinkler. Fifteen minutes on the irrigation project, and pork chops may be cooked.

Or he can be a little more fantastic if the meal is built around frozen minute steaks. Beef, he'll explain to the deputy summer cook, doesn't have to be cooked too much. Torchy Peden used to eat it almost raw when he was six-day bike riding. But there's always a danger, he points out, that the beef, chilled in the packing plant and butcher shop, may just be revived by a warming and get up and walk away.

MAN AND FIRE

All the time, of course, he has to figure on this penchant for time-saving in the modern march of progress. He can't afford to talk about grilling over a slow fire or anything like that. He has to strike a sort of happy medium which will impress the modern student and deputy summer cook with the difference between mankind before it learned the uses of fire and the stage in development which came with the application of heat to food. It's a sort of gentle lesson in anthropology—all serving the euphemistic purpose of avoiding such demands as "Why in tophet don't you cook this meat?"

Of course, it isn't necessary to slave over a hot stove. You can buy your prepared meats and you can have salads. Now salads, it seems to at least one regularly working man, are largely for rabbits. A nibble of lettuce, a smattering of canned fruits and a gob of cottage cheese—which surely was never meant for the human palate—don't seem to make the full man.

Still, you'll eat 'em and like 'em when they're prepared by the deputy summer cook. If you don't, you'll find yourself attired in a bib apron presiding at the kitchen range yourself, and doing nothing much better than gathering material for that hackneyed can-opener column too many writers turn out at this season.

Coldwell Says Thatcher 'Behaved Very Badly'

MOOSE JAW, Sask. (CP)—CCF leader M. J. Coldwell says Ross Thatcher lost the trust of all parties when he split with the CCF to sit in the House of Commons as an Independent member.

"The general feeling in the House was that he behaved very, very badly," Mr. Coldwell told a CCF federal constituency convention Monday night. The meeting saw about 60 registered delegates officially turn their backs on Mr. Thatcher, elected in Moose Jaw-Lake Centre under the CCF banner. Delegates endorsed plans to reorganize the constituency in preparation for a nominating convention later this year.

Mr. Coldwell said the member's "failure to honor verbal commitments made at a party convention in 1953 to support party principles" had made him untrustworthy in the eyes of all parties.

When a resolution was introduced asking Mr. Thatcher to resign his seat, Mr. Coldwell declared "it's no good to ask Thatcher to resign from the House because he isn't going to."

Short Cuttings Give Best Results

Success with the increasing of plants from cuttings starts with the proper selection of stock plants.

Contrary to general belief the best cutting wood is not that which is taken from the most vigorous shoots of the plant, nor are shoots satisfactory which have become hardened and made little growth.

Jack

Wood which is showing a normal rate of growth is to be preferred, and cuttings of this type will contain reserve food and the condition of the tissue is such as not to hinder the protrusion of roots.

SHARP KNIFE

The length of a cutting will vary from two to five inches, and generally speaking, the shorter they are the better the results. The basal cut is made as straight across as possible, using a sharp knife (razor blades are ideal) and taking care not to crush or tear the tissues. Much has been written regarding the exact position of the basal cut, but investigations show that it should be made either at a node or within one-half inch below.

As much foliage as can be kept from wilting should be retained on the cutting. Only when the plant has leaves with large surfaces is it necessary to reduce the leaf surface, and then not more than one-third of the total leaf area should be removed.

Basal leaves are removed to facilitate insertion of the cutting, and these should be cut or pinched off so as not to tear the tissues of the main stem.

LONDON LETTER

By WALLACE REYBURN

Public or Private Schools

LONDON—Some of the famous English public (i.e. private) schools have jacked up their fees again. But this has had no effect in diminishing the waiting lists of parents who want to get their children into them.

"Where do the parents find the money—and why?" asks "Candidus," writing in the Daily Sketch. "Some parents find the money by cashing insurance and doing without holidays and the luxuries of life. But why do they do it?"

He says that he has tried to explain why to a number of North American friends but without success. They can't understand. Some American and Canadian parents do the same thing but, he says, they are so exceptional as to be almost eccentric. Certainly no parents in North America would put their children into boarding school unless they could afford it. And the vast majority wouldn't do it, even if they got the education free.

According to Candidus, a violent Socialist would say contemptuously that the parents had no other motive than social climbing and snobbery. "That simply won't do. If a mother wears the same frock for five years running, and a father resigns from his club to pay school fees, they aren't doing any social climbing, except downwards."

"Whatever the reasons may be, they are much more respectable than that, and these struggling and hard-hit parents are setting an example that a lot of their vocal critics would do well to follow. These parents think that a special kind of education is right for their children. And they are willing to make bitter sacrifices for it."

IDLE THOUGHT, after being present at the Canada House reception given for 72 visiting Canadian presswomen: why does the newspaper game attract probably the lowest proportion of good-looking girls of any business in which women are engaged?

MARY PICKFORD, here with hubby Buddy Rogers on her way to get production going on a film in Spain, says she's been retired for 22 years—"and my retirement has taken on like my vaccination." A comeback? "If Noel Coward could write me a part reminiscent of the things I used to do I might have a try."

NEXT ASSIGNMENT for Pietro Annigoni, painter of what is regarded now by most people here as the best portrait of the Queen, is a portrait of ballet star Margot Fonteyn.

I MENTIONED recently an English doctor who has started doing extensive tests to prove his theory that car-sickness in children is caused by static electricity and can be avoided by dangling a chain from the bottom of your car to the road. In case you might be thinking of trying this out, you should be warned that there are complications.

Motorists who have tried it out here are complaining to him that it makes their journeys a nightmare. Well-meaning pedestrians and fellow motorists keep stopping them to point out helpfully: "You've got a broken brake cable, chum." One motorist was chased four miles by thoughtful police to draw his attention to the chain. Might be simpler to just let the kids yield to nature.

WILL HISTORY repeat itself? Journey's End is acknowledged as the best play to come out of World War I. It was by R. C. Sherriff. Sir Michael Balcon has just hired him to do the script for a movie about Dunkirk, to be called The Big Pick Up. Will Sherriff catch better than anyone else the mood of World War II, as he did with the other?

TOO CONTENTIOUS

School Board Shies From Fluoride Vote

Endorsement in principle of fluoridation was withheld by Greater Victoria School Board Monday night on the grounds the subject was contentious and beyond the jurisdiction of members.

The decision came after receipt of a letter from Dr. Elizabeth Mahaffey, city medical health officer, who asked for the endorsement. (Health authorities are seeking support for a public education campaign.)

But the board fell in line with sentiments of Trustee Richard Reeve who said: "I think it is a contentious issue and comes beyond the confines of the board's jurisdiction. We are not in a position to endorse or deny."

A school thrift plan in co-operation with the Bank of Nova Scotia will be discontinued at S. J. Willis Junior High School, the board ruled.

Windows had to be repaired in 23 district schools in June. In one school, Mount View High, there were 22 panes reported smashed in the girls' locker room. Police are investigating. A gang of boys is suspected at Mount View.

Premier Asks Socreds Aid Lillooet Vote

Premier W. A. C. Bennett Monday asked all Social Credit groups in B.C. to take up special collections for the forthcoming Lillooet by-election campaign.

Speaking "as leader of the movement," he asked Socreds throughout the province to raise the by-election fund at meetings celebrating the third year of Social Credit in B.C. on Aug. 2.

The premier still has not disclosed the date of the by-election, but said it will be held "in the fall."

PRINCETON PREACHER FREED ON CHARGE INVOLVING GIRL

VANCOUVER (CP)—Conviction last May of a Princeton, B.C., Baptist minister on a juvenile delinquency charge was quashed in Supreme Court here Monday by Justice Norman Whittaker.

Preacher Nils Nielsen, 28, was fined $50 in police court at Princeton when he pleaded guilty to contributing to the delinquency of a 15-year-old girl "by keeping her out late at night and kissing and hugging her."

The preacher claimed he had pleaded guilty under a misapprehension.

Nielsen told the court he plans to marry her when she gets older.

'HUSTLE' PAYS OFF FOR WADE—$400 WORTH

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Outfielder Gale Wade of Los Angeles and the Hollywood Stars took top honors in the Pacific Coast League "hustle" awards this month, it was announced Monday.

Wade collected $400 as top man in three categories and the Stars were named the league's "club of the month" and will receive $1,500.

Wade's winnings included $200 for reaching first base the most times during the month, a feat he accomplished 58 times; $100 for the outfielder with the most putouts, 94, and $100 for stealing 14 bases.

IT'S MY VIEW

By BILL WALKER, Sports Editor

When a Monday follows an attempted flight from reality, there's only one thing to do in this business:

Put one word down and follow it with another.

And so . . .

The fishing excursion started with the sun peeking through weatherman Bill Mackie's "overcast" (fog to you guys and gals) and the Sunday gloom that typifies a summer morn here, especially after the Nanaimo Timbermen engage in lacrosse on Saturday night.

For this was the Shamrock fishing derby, the disengagement from worldly care (that's the Intercity Lacrosse League championship to the disinterested.)

And soon the cohos were seen "boiling" among the feed that was clearly evident near the marker at Mill Bay.

Just about as soon the Shamrocks were back in first place; and it sounded more feasible by the moment, the locker being well stocked, and the service excellent, and there being no Timbermen about to spike the offering.

Well, the cohos kept jumping, a distressing sight, but in no way were the Irish to be dismayed. With each sighting the Rocks reached a higher plane until, entering the league playoffs, they had reached their zenith.

They had twice knocked off the Timbermen as they had to do to the men of Arnie Dugan, and were just about to commence the league finals with this same opponent, a terrorized crew by now, when, it happened.

Wil Got Expert Advice, Too

The relative solitude of victory at sea was shattered by the unrealistic whine of a spinning reel—unrealistic because the noisemaker belonged to Wil Wilson, a money lender by trade, a referee hater by choice, and now, by his own accomplishment, about to be a fisherman.

Quickly, the expert advice of a man who dabbles in such matters daily was forthcoming. His clients know him best as an expert by profession, rather than from practical ability. But nonetheless the never-let-it-be-forgotten fact that he has qualified for the ladder fish-off puts him in the titular class or, as he advised Wil:

"Easy now, let him run; give you still get him? Not too fast; don't railroad him. Here, give me that net. Keep that line taut. There now—easy. Let him run if he wants to. Watch him! Oh, he's a nice one—not as big as mine, but a nice one . . ."

And thus Wil Wilson qualified for the ladder derby, modestly alone decreasing his future derby participation with the Duffers, for whom he tolled for so many years.

Proof in Concrete Form

(It wouldn't do, in comment, to say that the expert guidance he received came from one who previously had never qualified for anything like a ladder derby. That would be facetious, even though Stan Williams has proudly posted on his boat, fish scales to prove his catch.)

But now the boxla playoffs had begun and the Irish were soon home free and awaiting only the arrival of the Peterborough Trailermen for the Mann Cup finals.

And then it was Monday.

Fishing: The Rocks could care less, and had fished like it. Lacrosse: Oddly enough next Sunday follows this Saturday and it can't always be gloomy—Rocks meeting Timbermen as they do Saturday.

Moral: A carefree attitude suggests contentment; contentment implies confidence; and confidence breeds success.

Reality: That comes Saturday.

WORLD TOURNEY THEIR AIM

Beer Bottles (Used) Will Aid This Group

VANCOUVER—Used beer bottles and waste paper are chief items in a fund-raising drive to make a Canadian touring team the nation's first competitor in an international women's grass hockey tourney.

But Greater Vancouver Women's Grass Hockey Association is working to send the team to the 1956 International Federation of Women's hockey tournament at Sydney, Australia, strictly "on a wing and a prayer." By faith the association has already booked the team's passage with Canadian Pacific Airlines, although their money-raising scheme has raised only one-third of the cash required. Some 80 girls in the association have raised $2,300 in the last three months by means of a series of financial brainstorms.

VICTORY PARADE

UBC Rowers Get Big Reception

VANCOUVER (CP)—One of the biggest receptions for a victorious sports team in Vancouver's history greeted the University of British Columbia rowing crew on its return from England Monday.

The UBC crew, which defeated Russian rowers at the semi-finals in the Henley regatta and narrowly missed victory in the finals, was first met by an honor guard of 150 army cadets at the airport where the rowers landed at 3:40 p.m. aboard a Trans-Canada Air Lines plane.

After a victory parade behind the cadet band through downtown Vancouver, the students were greeted officially at the court house by Fred Deely, president of Vancouver Rowing Club, which trained them.

Medals of recognition were presented by Mayor Fred Hume and later a luncheon was given in their honor.

Wilson Real Stopper ---Now Sox Know Why

By The Associated Press

One pitcher can't solve the problems of last-place Baltimore. But, with Jim Wilson around, none of the American League flag contenders has managed to get really fat off Orioles.

Wilson, who pitched the lone no-hitter in the majors last season for Milwaukee Braves, tops the Baltimore staff with seven victories. The defeat left Sox two games behind Yankees, who were idle. The only other American League game went to Washington Senators, 6-3 over Kansas City Athletics.

In the National Brooklyn Dodgers retained a 12½ game lead despite a 9-5 defeat by Cincinnati Redlegs as second-place Milwaukee led 6-5 to New York Giants. Philadelphia Phillies tumbled Chicago Cubs to their seventh and eighth straight losses, winning the wrap-up of Sunday's suspended game 8-4 and taking a regularly-scheduled contest 2-1.

Joe Black, the ex-Dodger and reliever Art Fowler were effective enough to halt Brooklyn although the crippled Dodgers rallied for four runs in the seventh. That cut the Redlegs to 6-5 but Stan Palys and Ted Kluszewski hit back-to-back homers to open a three-run ninth. It was the second of the game for Palys and No. 30 for the season for Klus.

Rotary Upsets Odd Fellows

Cellar-dwelling Rotary turned the tables on second-place Odd Fellows at Little League Park Monday night, running up a 5-1 lead and hanging on for a 5-4 National League victory.

The win brought Rotary to within half a game of third-place North Kiwanis.

Odd Fellows pushed across two runs in the fifth and one more in the sixth to threaten the winners before centre fielder Dennis Todd cut down the tying run at the plate with a fine throw to end the rally.

In Esquimalt Little League action Sunday, Lions dumped Pirates, 8-3, and Yarrow defeated Merchants, 4-2.

Line score follows:

Rotary . . . 012 115—5 7 2

A novel raffle in which the girls auctioned off every second of a 12-hour period with three clocks as prizes, was another big money-raiser. Another project is a "personalized taxi service" whereby the girls who drive cars charge their friends 10 cents per ride.

The association will open a ticket sales service for the Pacific National Exhibition, and the girls are continuing to make money on their baby-sitting service.

Sixteen seats have been booked aboard Canadian Pacific Airlines' flight from Vancouver to Sydney for the tournament, which continues from May 20, to June 3, 1956.

Fifteen girls and a manager will make the trip. Try-outs for the all-star squad will get underway early this fall, and grass hockey stars from Vancouver Island have been invited to attend. Invitations were also sent to grass hockey teams across Canada, but only Vancouver Island has responded.

Meanwhile every member of the Vancouver association turns out for practices two nights a week under coach Floriss Vos, a former Dutch international grass hockey expert.

Canadian Tennis Finalists Named

MONTREAL (CP)—Paul Willey of Vancouver and Larry Barclay of Montreal Monday night advanced to the men's doubles final of the Canadian tennis championships by defeating John Swann, Vancouver, and Henri Rochon, Montreal, 6-1, 7-9, 6-3, 6-4.

Willey and Barclay will meet Bob Bedard and Don Fontana today in the final on the Mount Royal courts.

Bedard and Fontana defeated Jim Bentley and Don Platt, both of Toronto, 6-0, 6-2, 6-2.

One-Game Suspension Handed Out

Any fireworks expected to materialize from Monday night's Intercity Lacrosse Commission meeting in Vancouver, fizzled out.

The meeting was called for two purposes:

1. To discuss punitive action against Mount Pleasant Indians playing-coach Jake Proctor, for allegedly punching referee Ernie Smith and to investigate charges attributed to Proctor that league referees had been "fixed" by the league.

2. To hear reports from referees and league commissioner Ed Popham Sr., of Victoria, on the stalling tactics and referee defiance of Vancouver Pilseners and coach Johnny Cavallin during a game in Victoria Friday night.

ONE-GAME SUSPENSION

The result of the meeting was that Proctor was handed a one-game suspension in addition to the game he sat out automatically after receiving a match-misconduct penalty.

Cavallin's case was not tried. In the case of Proctor, a report filed by the referees denied that Proctor had punched Smith after last Thursday's game with New Westminster.

The charge was reduced to rushing and the one-game suspension was meted out. In regard to the "fixing" statements, Proctor denied making the statements and told the commission that Vancouver reporters had put the words in his mouth and had quoted him out of context.

The commission tabled the report by Popham on the behavior of Cavallin and the Pilseners in Victoria and will reopen the case when reports are received from referees Smith and Eric Dickenson.

Replaying a protested game lost to Victoria Police June 26, Rotary showed home three runs in the top of the eighth inning to dump the league leaders, 7-4, and move into a three-way tie for second spot.

Mr. Racing, Jim Speers, Dies

WINNIPEG (CP)—R. James Speers, dean of western Canada horse racing, died at his home here early today at the age of 73.

A heart attack was the immediate cause of death, closing a career that gave Canada its first horseman whose thoroughbreds won more than $1,000,000.

He was affectionately known as "Mr. Racing."

Born at Elmbank, Ont., the son of a blacksmith, Jim Speers came to Winnipeg as a harvester when he was 18. He left five years later for Old Battleford in northern Saskatchewan, bent on making good.

With little money, but a "large store of determination, courage and an acute trading sense, he prospered in the grain and livestock business.

His cattle business took him back to Winnipeg in 1920 and he decided to try operating a race meeting. With two partners, he leased River Park in 1922 and in 1924 he built Whit-tier Park.

A year later he built Polo Park in Winnipeg and following that built Chinook Park in Calgary.

SUCCESS STORY

The turning point in his career came during the height of the depression. In 1931, after trying unsuccessfully to start a breeding farm, he went to Kentucky to pick up a good sire.

He had about $1,500 and started bidding strongly. He wound up with 27 excellent mares for $6,000. He had spoken to the treasurer who had trusted him for the remaining $4,500.

Those 27 mares were the nucleus of the present thoroughbred population of western Canada and many in the east.

They and their progeny have produced more foals that have won more races and more money than any other stable in the west. However, he never realized his life-long ambition—to own a King's or Queen's Plate winner.

He held such positions as managing director of the Winnipeg Jockey Club at Polo Park; chairman of the board of directors and general manager of the Manitoba Jockey Club; general manager of the spring race meeting at Edmonton. He also was honorary secretary of the Prairie Thoroughbred Breeders and Racing Association and a director of the Canadian Thoroughbred Horse Society.

NEW YORK—Sugar Al Wilson, 145 lb., Englewood, N.J., outpointed Irish Pat Lowry, 144, Toledo, Ohio, (10).

City Bowlers Qualify In B.C. Meet

VANCOUVER (CP)—Eight out-of-town rinks qualified for the knockout rounds in the Bowser, Jenkinson, Jack and Stewart competitions Monday as the 33rd annual B.C. Lawn Bowling Association tournament got under way.

These knockouts will start Thursday at 9 a.m. and continue throughout the day until the finals are reached.

Fifty-three rinks started in the Bowser Open competition, playing under the pennant system, in eight different sections, each rink taking part in four games of 14 ends each.

J. Robertson of Nanaimo and A. Ashford of Burnside, Victoria, skipped their rinks to the top of their sections and will take part in the Bowser Trophy playdowns.

Jr. Rocks To Travel

Last chance at gaining a playoff berth in the Intercity Junior Lacrosse League will be put before Archie Browning's Victoria Junior Shamrocks Thursday night when they face Mount Pleasant Indians in Vancouver.

Having lost three of their four games, two of them in overtime, Junior Shamrocks face the prospect of winning Thursday or losing all chance of entering the three-team playoff.

Indians are defending champions of the Minto Cup, for Canadian junior lacrosse supremacy.

Legal Action Possible

WINNIPEG (CP)—Winnipeg Blue Bombers may take legal action against quarterback Bobby Freeman and linebacker Jack Locklear for apparently jumping their 1955 Bomber contracts to play for Cleveland Browns of the National Football League.

Bert Enters Derby

Thomas to Fish For Solarium Kids

The fish in Saanich Inlet are going to meet a formidable challenge Sunday — a man who can live comfortably in their element.

Bert Thomas, the man who whipped the salt out of the Strait of Juan de Fuca and became a world-famous celebrity overnight, told The Times today he is championing the bit, waiting for Sunday's annual Anglers-Times Solarium Derby in Saanich Inlet.

Asked to be guest of honor at the prize-presentation ceremony following the derby, Bert went one better and asked if he could also fish in the derby.

Officials of the co-sponsoring Victoria-Saanich Inlet Anglers' Association are supplying Thomas and his family with a boat, tackle and guiding.

Thomas will be on hand to help give out the many prizes at the Brentwood Anchorage at 5, following the derby.

Thomas said, "I hope this derby is as successful as it has been in the past. A person can do nothing better than to help raise funds for crippled kids. Count me in."

Kennel Club Parlor Show Saturday

Madge Gillespie Memorial Trophy competition will be the feature event at the Victoria City Kennel Club's annual outdoor parlor show to be held Saturday at 3775 Haro Road at 2:15.

The trophy will be awarded to the best dog owned and bred by a member of the Victoria City Kennel Club, with champions eligible to enter.

Most of the large entry field expected will be in the puppy classes. There will be classes for junior puppies, between three and six months; senior puppies, between six and 12 months; dogs of any age who have not won a first prize; and open classes for all ages and breeds.

Kenneth Rickman of Deep Cove will judge all breeds.

Any purebred dog aged three months or over is eligible to enter the show. Further information may be obtained by telephoning 2-9083.

LADDER DERBY

A. Moorehouse collected a silver button and $15 in prize-money for topping the 50-rung ladder in the seventh week of the Victoria-Saanich Inlet Anglers Association Ladder Derby.

Other prize winners were: third, D. Hanson, 25.5; fourth, Paul Jonas, 24; fifth, Jack James, 23.8. (Hidden Weight), C. Farrar, 6.4.

Kilburn Holds Bat Leadership

Colin Kilburn of Chinese Students is still leading the batters in the Senior A Men's Softball League, but his position is by no means secure.

Kilburn has dropped down to .352. Archie Sluggert of Arrows, the first half leader, is second at .365.

Newcomer Jim Reay of United Services is posing a threat if he can get in the required number of 60 at bat to be eligible for the title. Reay is currently batting .375 in 24 trips to the plate.

Sluggert is now the leading pitcher with a 6 and 1 record, while Barry Jackson has the most wins, nine, and is leading the strikeouts with 81.

COUNCIL STUDIES PROPOSAL

PCL Franchise To Vancouver?

VANCOUVER (CP)—City council Monday appointed a committee to study a proposal to bring an unidentified Pacific Coast League baseball franchise to Vancouver.

Coleman E. Hall, chairman of the citizens' baseball committee here, told council the deal would have to be completed within 30 days when the club has to renew its present home-town lease.

Hall said he couldn't identify the club because "it would hurt them at home and they're still planning."

Lawyer A. M. Russell, representing the PCL team, presented proposals to lease Capilano Stadium for five years with the right of renewal for further five-year terms.

Hall recommended acceptance of the offer and said the club would have to move to Vancouver at the end of the present season.

Other points in the suggested agreement are that the city would get five per cent of gross admission receipts less amusement tax and the club would pay only business tax and have all rights to advertising, radio and television, parking and other concessions.

Under the agreement the city would also increase seating capacity to 10,000 from 7,500 and roof part of the stadium.

At a meeting between Hall's committee and council last November, it was estimated the extra seats would cost about $60,000 and the roof $30,000.

Vancouver was in the Western International League for several seasons until the loop folded at the end of last summer because of financial difficulties.

Present members of the eight-team Pacific Coast League are Seattle, Portland, Oakland, San Francisco, Sacramento, San Diego, Hollywood and Los Angeles.

LONDON (AP)—Eddie Firmani, 21-year-old inside-forward of Charlton Athletic, Monday night was sold to the Sampdoria Football Club of Genoa for $35,000—the highest price ever received by an English club for a player.

Four Player Soccer Swap

LONDON (CP)—Huddersfield Town and Sheffield Wednesday have arranged a four-player swap, biggest soccer deal of the summer.

Huddersfield, which toured Canada earlier this year, has parted with right back Ron Stanforth, chosen to play for England eight times, and reserve centre forward Roy Shiner. Wednesday, relegated to the Second Division last spring and rebuilding in an effort to jump back, traded winger Jackie Marriott and right back Roy Conwell.

No cash was involved, except the £10 transfer fee for each player.

DUESSELDORF, Germany (BUP)—Jaroslav Drobný of Egypt won the men's singles title of the International tennis tournament Sunday by beating Mervyn Rose of Australia 6-2, 6-0, 6-3.

Fleck 'A Stranger to Himself'

By JOE FALLS

DETROIT (AP)—The golf world is his for the asking, but Jack Fleck, the new U.S. Open champion, may go fishing instead.

The 32-year-old Iowan is finding out that the life of a champion—especially one who has beaten the mighty Ben Hogan—isn't all it's cracked up to be.

"I'm not sure about my future," Fleck said Monday after firing a practice round in preparation for the Professional Golfers' Association tournament starting Wednesday.

"Maybe I'll play in a couple more tournaments, then go fishing. I don't know, I just don't know. I don't want to make any commitments."

Ever since his dramatic play-off victory over Hogan for the U.S. title last month, Fleck has been on a dizzy merry-go-round of hand-shaking, autographing, back-patting and picture-taking.

"It's all great, sure, but it affects your game," he said. "I originally planned to make a tour but now I'm not fit to do it—mentally or physically."

His fellow pros sympathize with Fleck.

"NO GASOLINES ARE SUPERIOR TO NEW 1955 B-A 88&98"

"Today's high compression engines are extremely critical of the fuel they use. To give you consistently best road performance, they must have a high octane gasoline. Our new 88 and 98 gasolines completely satisfy this need.

However, octane alone is not enough. By selective blending and special processes, we have refined out harmful impurities from B-A gasolines. We call these impurities the 'dirty-burning tail-ends.'

Now we have 'clean-burning' high octane gasolines. We know this, because we tested them for months on new automobile engines. In all tests, we found that in the engines using our new 'clean-burning' gasolines all parts were essentially free of combustion deposits—even after thousands of miles of hard driving.

These gasolines are now at your B-A Service Station. They have the high octane that's needed in a high compression engine... and they 'burn clean' to give you full engine power, thousands of miles longer—with less engine wear."

City-Saanich Group To Talk Race Track

The Beaver-Elk Lake race track question is due for early discussion by Victoria-Saanich Beaches and Parks committee. It was indicated today by committee chairman and Saanich reeve, Joseph Casey.

He also announced that a special sub-committee inspected abandoned filter beds at the south-east corner of Beaver Lake today for possible development of additional outside swimming areas.

The reeve said he toured beaches at Elk and Beaver Lake Sunday and he found the largest crowds he had ever seen using the beach facilities.

There was scarcely room to "place a towel" on the beaches even though the committee has dumped about 50 new loads of sand in some spots.

Reeve Casey also stated that two items of business referred to the Victoria-Saanich Beaches and Parks committee will be considered as soon as he can arrange a meeting. First to come up will be a report on use of the Beaver-Elk area which was submitted by the Capital Regional Planning Board. It recommended against use of the recreation spot as a racetrack and wanted it developed as a park.

An offer by Saanich to pay $36,000 for the city-owned land on the lake watershed was also referred to the committee by city council and will be subject of recommendation.

The committee is comprised of city members, Mayor Claude Harrison, Ald. Don Smith, Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow and Ald. Robert Macmillan. Saanich members are Reeve Casey, Coun. George Austin, Coun. S. W. Brock and Coun. R. J. Fleming.

Big item facing the committee, approval or disapproval of a revised plan for a $500,000 race track development by Island Turf Club Ltd. of Vancouver on the Beaver-Elk site, may also be settled.

Following months of bickering and delay, Saanich, city and turf club officials agreed on a new track plan which was expected to overcome objections of ratepayers in the track area.

The Vancouver builders were expected to submit it for examination by Victoria-Saanich Beaches and Parks Committee.

An architectural plan for the development had not been received by the committee to date but it is expected to be here in time for the meeting. Reeve Casey said he would set a date as soon as he was sure members were not holidaying.

The idea of developing the old filter tanks as a swimming area arose during a committee tour of local parks and beaches in May. Three huge cement-walled reservoirs which have not been used since development of the Sooke Lake water system would provide needed swimming space or possibly space for a fish hatchery, the committee decided.

Turkey's population is estimated at 22,500,000 against 16,000,000 in 1935.

THIRD HUSBAND was acquired Monday by Dorothy Kirsten, opera star, when she married Dr. J. Douglas French, a neurosurgeon. It was his first marriage. Miss Kirsten divorced her first husband, New York radio producer Edward M. Oakes, in 1949. Her second husband, Dr. Eugene Chapman, died in January, 1954. Miss Kirsten is 35, Dr. French, 35.

Robeson Visit News to Ottawa

OTTAWA (CP)—The immigration department has no information on negro singer Paul Robeson's intention to enter Canada for a concert at Vancouver next Sunday, immigration director C. E. S. Smith said today.

At Washington Monday, Robeson refused to sign an affidavit swearing he has never been a Communist. But state department officials there indicated a ban on his travel to Canada would be lifted shortly. Robeson would have to satisfy Canadian immigration officials that he is not a subversive person and is of good character generally.

Winch Says Roaches, Mice Infest House

OTTAWA (CP)—Bringing back the cats, cried Harold E. Winch Monday as he said Parliament's mice are getting out of hand.

The OCF member for Vancouver East made the appeal in the Commons while criticizing the verminous state of Parliament's centre block.

He said that a number of cats which had once made the building their home were exiled before this session. There were no mice before.

Now there were mice on the fifth and sixth floors, in the restaurant and cafeteria, skittering across the marble corridors.

"May I suggest you bring those cats back, or bring in exterminators between sessions," Mr. Winch said. "Not while we're here, though."

At the night sitting, Mr. Winch sought to prove his claim that there are cockroaches in the building.

He sent an envelope across the Commons floor to Works Minister Winters, explaining he picked up its contents in one room in about two minutes' time.

Mr. Winch said later outside the House that the envelope contained about 30 dead cockroaches.

Mr. Winters said the matter does not come within his jurisdiction. Mice and cockroaches were a housekeeping problem and he would draw it to the attention of Speaker Rene Beaudoin.

What's news at Inco*?

Soon... iron from a nickel mine

615 feet above some high ground near Copper Cliff, Ontario, the tallest chimney in the British Commonwealth will soon rear its nickel-chrome stainless steel crown.

It will be the symbol of a victory by Inco's research staffs over a problem that has defied solution for a great many years. The problem was how to extract iron from the nickel ore at a profit.

Inco's faith in its trail-blazing new process is being shown by the expenditure of $16 million on the first unit of a plant that will eventually produce a million tons a year of iron ore of a quality never before produced in quantity in North America.

This is but one of the history-making developments undertaken at Inco in recent years which have so far required the allocation of $160 million of Inco's own funds.

"The Romance of Nickel", a 72-page book, fully illustrated, will be sent free on request to anyone interested.

Russians Gay For Cameramen

GENEVA (Reuters)—Russia's Premier Nikolai Bulganin and the Communist Party chief, Nikita Khrushchev, smiled and waved to press photographers as they arrived in an open car today for a lunch given by French Premier Edgar Faure.

All the Western delegates arrived in closed cars.

State Secretary Dulles deputized for President Eisenhower at the lunch, which Faure gave for top delegates from all Big Four nations. The president is prevented by protocol from attending social functions given by prime ministers, since he is a head of state and they are only heads of government.

Frenchwoman Sought News of Husband

GENEVA (Reuters)—Swiss police said today they had released a Frenchwoman arrested Monday when she tried to throw a letter into the open car in which Marshall Nikolai Bulganin, Soviet premier, and Nikita Khrushchev, Communist party chief, were riding to the Big Four conference here. The woman was escorted to the Franco-Swiss frontier this morning.

In her letter, which the police delivered to the Soviet delegation, she pleaded for news of her husband, a Russian war prisoner she married in France in 1944.

After the war he was repatriated to Russia and she has had no word of him since.

A Soviet spokesman said today the matter would be investigated.

Hopes Efforts Not Lost on Slopes

VATICAN CITY (AP)—The Vatican's Osservatore Romano says mankind is watching the Geneva "summit" conference "trusting that efforts being made at the base will not be lost on the slopes."

The Vatican-published newspaper devotes a long editorial urging Big Four leaders not to seek merely "material co-existence" but a true easing of world tensions.

"Material co-existence is merely cold war," says the newspaper.

"A living together, without easing tensions, in its turn is cold peace... neither the one nor the other is peace. It is an armistice—an armistice given time and opportunity to multiply arms. That is world suicide. But humanity invokes and awaits a rebirth, a resurrection... For this an easing of world tension is necessary."

IKE, GEORGI CHUMMY

Wartime Pals Dine, Drink, Toast Big 4

GENEVA (AP)—President Eisenhower entertained his old ally-in-arms, Marshal Georgi Zhukov, and other Soviet leaders at dinner Monday night. Both sides drank champagne toasts to the success of the Big Four conference and achievement of a lasting peace.

The official word after the four-day affair at Eisenhower's Lake Geneva villa was that both the American and Russian delegations enjoyed themselves. It was the first meeting of the president and Zhukov at a social affair since November, 1945.

They saw each other for the first time in those 10 years at the opening session of the summit conference in the morning. But at that meeting Soviet party boss Khrushchev took over the conversation. He told Eisenhower that Marshal Zhukov, Soviet defence minister, was missing his daughter's wedding in Moscow in order to "see you."

But the White House press secretary, James Hagerty, said the president and Zhukov had at least one opportunity at the dinner to talk privately.

Eisenhower's guests in addition to Zhukov were Premier Bulganin, Khrushchev, Foreign Minister Molotov and Deputy Foreign Minister Gromyko.

Eisenhower and Zhukov came to know each other well in the months after the war.

Far East More Important Than Germany Says Nehru

NEW DELHI (UP)—Indian Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru said today the Far East is a more explosive problem than Germany and cannot be ignored by the Big Powers.

In an obvious reference to the summit meeting in Geneva, Nehru said he hoped the Big Four would give some consideration to Formosa and the Far East question, and "prepare some ground for a smooth consideration of the whole problem later."

He added that the Formosa question cannot be considered without Communist China.

"At some time a conference will have to be held to discuss the Far East," the Indian statesman said at a press conference at which he reviewed his recent trip to Russia. "But informal approaches should be made before any final discussions."

The premier, regarded as the leading exponent of East-West co-existence, sent his good wishes to the Geneva conference.

"I hope there is a definite and precise creation of an atmosphere of friendly co-operation and settlement of all international disputes by mutual negotiations," Nehru said.

Italian House Gives Edge to Segni Cabinet

Confidence Vote By Bare Margin

ROME (Reuters)—The Italian chamber of deputies Monday night gave a narrow vote of confidence to Italy's new centre coalition cabinet headed by Christian Democrat Antonio Segni.

Segni, who is noted for his program to break up big farms and hand them over to peasants, formed his cabinet 12 days ago. It consists of Christian Democrats, Social Democrats and Liberals, and has the backing in parliament of the small Republican party.

Segni's platform has a somewhat more left-wing bias than that of his predecessor, Mario Scelba, a Christian Democrat who inherited the political mantle of the late Alcide de Gasperi.

The cabinet received 293 votes, while 265 deputies registered negative votes and 12 abstained.

Aid Sought In Helping Retarded Kiddies

The medical profession of Victoria, the Junior Chamber of Commerce and the Community Chest were represented at a recent meeting of the Greater Victoria Association for Retarded Children in the city hall.

An address was given by David Woodworth, Vancouver, provincial director of child welfare.

A general discussion period followed on retarded persons in Victoria and the need to assist.

All persons interested in helping retarded children, whether parents of such children or not, are urged to attend association meetings. Next meeting will be August 11, place to be announced later.

B.C.'s Apple Crop To Show Increase

VERNON, B.C. (CP)—Apple growers in this district estimate the 1955 crop will be 507,000 boxes.

The department of agriculture estimates the entire output of the Okanagan Valley this year will be 8,463,340 boxes, an increase of 409,828.

The total apple crop for B.C. is estimated at 7,114,140 boxes. The B.C. Tree Fruit Growers' Association have made plans to ship more than 1,500,000 four-pound bags of apples to Vancouver and Victoria this fall.

Observers report that pears show an increase from 696,775 boxes in 1954 to 1,645,512 boxes this season.

Four Adventurers on Raft Move Out Into Atlantic

HALIFAX (CP)—Reports reaching here say the Montreal

raft L'Egare left the Magdalen Islands Thursday and should be just about in the Atlantic "if present weather conditions prevail."

An informant in Grindstone, Magdalen Islands, said the raft and its four adventurous crew members were last seen off Brion Island in the Gulf of St. Lawrence during the week-end. L'Egare—the lost one—left Montreal about five weeks ago. Its crew hopes to sail across the Atlantic.

Pretty . . . But Don't Go in the Water

Filth—probably bacterial action on sewage—produced this whipped cream foam, according to health authorities. Avoid it like the plague. City health officer Dr. Elizabeth Mahaffey says impure water breeds polio. This scene below Gorge Bridge was caught by Times cameraman Bill Halkett this morning. Children often swim here.

Sixth Polio Case Here

The sixth case of polio reported in two days and was followed by a public warning issued by Dr. Elizabeth Mahaffey at the city health centre. She stated that although there is no cause for immediate alarm, polio could become more severe as the summer progresses.

She suggested to parents that absolute cleanliness is the best protection for young and old alike. Children should be made to wash before eating. Also important is protection against flies.

"There is always more polio in summer, probably because people travel about more and carry the disease," she stated. She recommended that children especially should avoid contact with strangers and new groups of people.

SWIM WARNING

Swimming is a special danger if there is any chance that the water might be polluted.

"Waters from Ross Bay to Ogden Point are polluted and dangerous—and also the Gorge—don't swim there," she added. Beware of headaches, fever, sore throat, sore muscles or upset stomach. If these symptoms develop, go to bed at once and notify your doctor, the health officer stated.

Spring Start On Solarium Aim of Board

Plans for a spacious Queen Alexandra Solarium at Gordon Head are "still in the drawing stage," David Angus, chairman of the planning and construction committee, said today.

Sketch drawings have been completed by architects Sharp and Thompson, Berwick, Pratt and Charles E. Craig, but "a tremendous amount of detail" must be filled in before tenders are called.

Construction of the six-ward building on Arbutus Road probably will begin in the spring of next year.

Federal and provincial government will pay their share of the cost, $345,000, in "staggered" payments, as the work progresses.

Total cost of the building is expected to be $929,000. Latest figures on the Solarium building fund show province-wide collections over $311,000. Objective is $534,000.

IMMUNIZATION PLAN PRESSED

City and district health departments hope to launch another campaign aimed at complete immunization of district school children against polio with the start of the school term.

But officials said at noon they had received no word as to when the scarce vaccine would again be available. All children in grade one and those who will start in grade one this year have been inoculated, where parents have given consent.

No vaccine has arrived in city drug stores for sale to the public except for a trickle early in the spring.

Old Filter Beds Held Unsuitable For Swim Pools

Development of old filter beds near Beaver Lake as a fish hatchery or swimming area was ruled out this morning following inspection by a special Victoria-Saanich beaches and parks sub-committee.

"It would be too costly," agreed Saanich councillor George Austin and city aldermen Geoffrey Edgell and Don Smith.

The committee agreed the parks committee would be better advised to spend what money is available on improving present facilities. The idea of renovating the filter beds, huge concrete tanks similar in shape to swimming pools was expressed by Mayor Claude Harrison earlier this year.

Teen-Aged Pair Plead Guilty To Break-Ins

Two 17-year-olds were remanded to Wednesday when they pleaded guilty in city police court today to two breakings and entering charges.

They are Deryl Smith, 645 Dundas, and Donald Penner, 2803 Adelaide.

Charged jointly, both pleaded guilty to charges of breaking and entering and theft at Nixon's Confectionery, 3011 Gosworth, July 10, and breaking and entering July 11 with intent to steal at Deighton's Service Station, 752 Caledonia.

TWO OTHERS

Circumstances will be given Wednesday when two other young men will also appear. Thomas E. Shirley, 19, 1740 Amphion, and Mervin W. Lee, HMCS Athabaskan, have pleaded guilty to breaking and entering with intent to steal, at Deighton's. Shirley also had entered a plea of guilty on a charge of breaking and entering and theft at Nixon's. All four suspects were arrested early July 11 on Cook Street.

Armful of Radios Leads to Arrest Of Shopbreaker

A Victoria man, arrested when a police constable saw him carrying four radios early Monday morning, pleaded guilty in city police court today to a charge of breaking and entering and theft at Woodward Stores Ltd. used appliance premises, 750 Pandora.

Magistrate Henry C. Hall remanded Douglas Percival Kay to Friday for a probation report and sentence.

Constable James Bligh testified he saw the accused walking on Pandora near Blanshard at about 4:20 a.m. Monday.

The accused had four radios, a flashlight, screwdriver, and a putty knife handle in his possession. Further investigation revealed Kay had broken into Woodward's and stolen the radios and about $13.50 in cash.

Soldiers Admit Robbing Victoria 'Host'

Pair to Receive Sentence Friday

Two soldiers will be sentenced in city police court Friday on a charge of robbery with violence.

William Joseph Hall, 20, and Delbert James LeMee, 22, both of Gordon Head Camp, pleaded guilty today to a charge of robbing Ronald MacDonnell, 29, 429A Michigan, Saturday night.

Magistrate Henry C. Hall remanded them to Friday for a probation and sentence.

Both were arrested Sunday night at the army camp.

CONCUSSION

Court was told today MacDonnell is in St. Joseph's Hospital. He suffered slight concussion, a four-inch cut to his face which required 14 stitches and bruises to the left shoulder and back of the head.

Police testified MacDonnell had asked the two soldiers to his home Saturday night.

After having a few drinks, MacDonnell turned his back and was struck from behind.

The two knocked him down, tied his hands behind his back, bound his ankles and then continued to beat him, police said.

They took $25 and a large quantity of MacDonnell's clothing—suits, overcoats and trousers—out to the beaten man's car and drove away.

MacDonnell was taken to hospital after he had struggled out of his house and, still tied, hopped to a neighbor's door.

The car was recovered Sunday night at Oswego near Caledonia.

Toddler Drowns In Lake Tragedy

Father Nearby Unaware Tot Wandered From Car

A toddler who supposedly had been left safely in the family car drowned Monday evening at Honeymoon Bay, Cowichan Lake, barely 50 feet from his father.

George Edward Fraser, one and one-half years of age, was pronounced dead by Dr. C. W. Mewhort at about 8 p.m.

According to reports the deceased and his brother, aged three years, accompanied their father from their home to the boom at Western Forest Industries Ltd. sawmill.

While their father, William Fraser, government scaler at the mill, was talking on one side of the road, the little boys left the car and wandered down to a float on the booming ground.

The younger boy apparently fell in the water, and warning was given by his brother, who told his father.

Mr. Fraser and his companion, Max Steckert, searched at the float, but were hampered by floating debris in the water.

When the little boy was found artificial respiration was applied immediately, and both Honeymoon Bay and Lake Cowichan inhalator squads attended, but without success.

Mr. and Mrs. Fraser had only the two children.

J. H. Boyd, coroner, has arranged for an inquiry to be held at a later date. Cpl. Dan Thompson attended for the RCMP.

December Vote To Be Asked On Race Track

A Saanich councillor and two city aldermen said today they will ask their respective councils to hold a referendum this December on whether a race track should be permitted in the Beaver-Elk Lake area.

Coun. George Austin of Saanich said he will call for the public opinion poll if the Victoria-Saanich, Beaches and Parks Committee recommends for the racetrack proposal made to Victoria by Island Turf Club of Vancouver.

He made the statement during a meeting of a Saanich Beaches and Parks sub-committee. City Aldermen Geoffrey Edgell and Don Smith stated that they would ask similar action of Victoria council.

The turf club has offered Victoria $800 a year rental for city-owned land in that area for construction of a $500,000 racetrack and fairground with park facilities.

The matter is at present awaiting recommendation by the intermunicipal parks committee, headed by Saanich Reeve Joseph Casey.

Saanich has so far opposed the track due to complaints by residents of the area.

U.S. Air Cadets Here August 4 On Western Tour

Twenty-five United States Civil Air Patrol Cadets will visit Victoria August 4 during a tour of Western Canada.

While here, they will visit local historic and beauty spots and have tea at Government House in the afternoon.

The visit is sponsored by the Provincial Air Cadet League and by No. 89 Kinsmen Squadron of the league. They will be billeted the night of August 4 at HMCS Naden.

The touring boys will be accompanied by two United States Air Force officers and four members of the provincial air cadet committee. Tour is by RCAF aircraft.

The visit is reciprocal. Canadian air cadets are scheduled to visit various United States points.

Man Sentenced To One Year For Forgery

A former Ontario man was sentenced in city police court today to two one-year jail terms on forgery charges and an additional six-month term, also concurrent, on a theft charge.

Norman W. Cameron, 49, a former resident of Metcalf, Ontario, and now of 427 Linden, pleaded guilty to all charges.

Police said Cameron signed the name of Frank Shaw to a $100 cheque made out to himself and cashed it at a city business premises April 30.

Second charge also involved a $100 cheque, cashed June 4. The theft involved $40 collected from a due account and not turned over to Charles Francis Shaw.

Bert Thomas To Train at Sproat Lake

Bert Thomas left at noon today to appear this week at the Seattle-Tacoma Sea Fair, but plans to establish camp next week at Sproat Lake to train for a try at Lake Ontario's 32-mile swim sponsored by the Canadian National Exhibition in late August and early September.

Following that he would like to swim from the California coast to Santa Catalina Island and across the eight-mile Strait of Gibraltar. "Why not?" he asked. "I'm in shape for it."

He referred to the Gibraltar swim as "my baby." Thomas indicated the latter two swims would probably depend on the Lake Ontario crossing, which he is confident of making and which he said he would enter with or without sponsorship.

It would be his first big competitive swim.

The heavyweight swimmer will return to Victoria Saturday night in order to take part in the Queen Alexandra Solarium fishing derby, sponsored next Sunday by the Times and Victoria Anglers' Association.

ASK THE TIMES

Q.—The House of Commons has been sitting in July, the members enduring some very warm weather. How many years have passed since the last sessions in July were held?—F.G.M.

A.—The last federal census, in 1951, listed a total of 596,961 males in the province and 568,249 females, making a total of 1,165,210. The Bureau of Statistics estimated the population of B.C. in June, 1954, at 1,296,000. An estimate for the middle of 1955 is expected from the bureau at an early date. Pipe Smokers' Gadgets Being Sold in Local Stores
By PENNY SAVER

Hear ye, all pipe smokers, and wives of pipe smokers. I've found a little gadget that will please the man in the house. It's called a "smoker's companion", and it's a fold-away mechanism that looks very much like a pocket knife. It has on it a bottle opener, a tobacco presser, pipe reamer and shaft spike or pick. So compact and useful, and it costs a mere 35 cents. It's made of a chromium metal, and will last for ages.

Yes, there's more for you pipe smokers, too. There's a lighter made especially for pipes. It's about two and a half inches long, and has a tobacco presser on one end. Just pull forward a sliding section, light the wick and the flame comes through a centre pipe. The lighter is placed right over the bowl of the pipe. Press the section back into place, and there is a completely covered unit again. The storage tank is large for extra-long service. It's made with a chrome finish, and costs $2.25. A good gift idea.

How about an adjustable pipe scraper? They're made in Scotland and will fit any sized pipe bowl. Just insert the scraper, press down, and it expands to fit perfectly. The gadget comes in a leather case, and costs $1.

For the family car, the turn-about visor set I saw in town will prove useful. On one side of the unit is a tissue box; on the other side is an attached scratch pad and a pencil in a slot. The whole thing clips onto the visor, and one part of the set goes on each side. In green, grey and maroon, you can buy them to match or blend with the car color or upholstery. The price is 95 cents.

For the fisherman or fisherman in the house, tackle boxes with sectioned shelves are a must. If your box is without them you can quickly remedy the situation by buying plastic sectioned boxes, that fit right on the trays.

Smorgasbord on Top Deck Of Denmark-Bound Ferry

Miss Grace Mitchell, vice-president of Victoria Toastmistress Club is on a four-month holiday in Europe. She writes of some of her impressions on a tour of northern Germany and Denmark.

"On a day early this month we drove up through the red tiled-roofed houses of northern Germany (they are more prosperous in the north, I should say) to the Timmerdorfer Strand on the Baltic. It was Saturday afternoon and we sat out on a patio on the strand, or beach as we would call it and sipped tea while we watched the dancers and listened to an open air orchestra. (One girl in the party had on long black velvet trousers with pom-poms and she wore her beads slung from her belt and dangling down instead of around her neck. We were all fascinated.)

"There is a long stretch of sand at Timmerdorfer but no one lies on the beach. They have the smartest little wicker basket arrangement, closed in on three sides, which keeps out the breeze and insures privacy at the same time, as they are all facing the same way—out to the ocean. Incidentally, these little contraptions are built to house two! Cosy like! There is also an awning to pull down . . . if you don't want the sun on your face. Really very smart!

"Later that evening, the Germans watched us with amusement when we went into a restaurant, and, having very few marks left, spun a small key-ring roulette wheel to see who would pay. I'm sure they thought we were quite mad.

"The next morning dawned bright and sunny and we were all in good spirits as we boarded the ferry for Denmark at Grossenbrode. Everyone rushed upstairs to the restaurant grabbed themselves a seat, left a coat on it to establish ownership and dashed for the smorgasbord table. What a meal! The Danes are smart and have the restaurant high up in the ship and very cool—the result being we all felt wonderful and ate to our hearts content.

Danes Serve Eggs With Famed Pastry

"We finally set foot in Denmark in the late afternoon and stayed the night at Nykøbing on the Island of Falster. Here they served us a meal on beautiful blue and white Danish china and had the table decorated with the Union Jack and a profusion of lovely Danish figurines. They gave us coffee after dinner and a boiled egg for breakfast. Generally coffee is an extra and they don't seem to expect to serve it.

"At one place in Germany they asked those wishing coffee for breakfast to put up their hands, so the right amount could be made without wasting any, as coffee is very scarce in Germany. But to get back to Nykøbing—with the boiled egg for breakfast they gave us Danish pastry! The Danes also give you about one-quarter pound of butter for your rolls! Alas, my poor waistline!

"After this we got into the coach (a bus is called a coach over here) and drove to the beautiful city of Copenhagen where we shopped until lunch time and then went on a wonderful tour of the city, ending up at the Tivoli Gardens. Later we drove to Elsinore where we stayed at a hotel on the Baltic with the lights of Sweden gleaming across the water. The next morning, to complete the picture, we visited Kronborg Castle, the setting of Shakespeare's 'Hamlet.'

"What of Denmark? Well, the Danes are a very friendly people. They all ride bicycles. The Danish Royal Family are no exception and can be seen riding their bicycles in the streets. There is no tax on these bicycles but there is on everything else. Many people too, have little boats instead of cars and go on their holidays in them. Very cheaply, too.

"The people can obtain allotments for the months from May to August for the equivalent of three pounds a year and on these they build their summer houses. There are 120,000 of these allotments.

"Danish school children get a free meal every day at 11 a.m. Dentistry is also free for school children, and if both parents are working, they are not allowed to go home from school before their parents arrive home. So, they are not at home alone or on the streets.

"A Danish child starts learning English at nine and French at 10 years of age.

"I saw the Palace and the part being made ready for the visit of our Queen and the Duke of Edinburgh in August.

"But now, good-bye to Copenhagen. Next time I hope to tell you something about Holland. Until then, happy landings!"

Hoaxes Prove That Women Have Flair for Deception

NEW YORK—When it comes to deception, women are much more imaginative than men. Further, they rarely pull a hoax for money. Nearly always, they do it for fun or to achieve a goal.

But when they do pull a hoax for financial gain, it's a honey. Take Madame Humbert, for example. She was a plain little French woman without education, looks or connections. But she succeeded in bilking French bankers out of 12 million dollars with a story about an American millionaire making her his heir.

She married the son of the minister of justice, owned town and country homes, a yacht and had a salon in Paris where the great artists, writers, judges and actors gathered.

She directed a cast of characters in carrying out the deception for years. And when she was finally found out, even government officials had become involved in l'affaire Humbert. The French were so filled with admiration for Mme. Humbert that one French banker who had been swindled of some 3,500,000 francs said:

"Oh, I'll be paid back somehow one of these days. And if not, well, I shall have had the privilege of serving a truly gifted woman."

Alexander Klein tells this story in his recently-published book, "Grand Deception." The book is a collection of true stories by well-known writers about famous hoaxes.

There was Dr. James Barry, Inspector General in the British Army, who died at the age of 71 in a London flat. Only when the physician who was to sign the death certificate examined the body was it discovered that Doctor Barry was a woman.

How she successfully carried on her masquerade for years is still not known. She was an army surgeon in the Mediter-

WI Superintendent Caught in Floods

Mrs. Stella Gummow, superintendent of Women's Institutes in British Columbia, has just returned from a five-week trip in which she traveled on foot, by rowboat, car, train and plane.

With Mrs. A. A. Shaw, provincial WI president, Mrs. Gummow attended the Canadian Federation of Women's Institute convention in Winnipeg, following which the two women set out for district meetings in the Bulkley-Tweedsmuir district at Houston; central interior district at Vanderhoof; the Peace River district at South Dawson and the Cariboo district at Horsefly.

Prior to the Horsefly meeting, Mrs. Gummow spoke at a meeting in the new institute hall at Wells and it was this stop-over that created the difficulty.

When the flood tide came and Mrs. Gummow and Mrs. Shaw were ready to leave for Prince George and Dawson Creek they discovered the road between Wells and Quesnel was washed out.

There was a wait of four days, Mrs. Gummow says, "and in that time we were lucky enough to be taken to the Gold Quartz Mine when they were pouring a gold brick. It was just the size of a loaf of bread but it weighed 65 pounds and we were told it was worth around $35,000."

The two women also tried panning for gold. An old prospector took them out and showed them a "likely" spot. "We didn't have any luck, however," Mrs. Gummow reports.

At the end of the four days it became imperative that the two women get out somehow for the Peace River meeting. The roads were still impassable so they walked several miles through the woods to reach the Cottonwood River. Here they got into a flat-bottomed boat that was pulled across the river by a rope attached to the remains of the bridge and at the far side, climbed an eight-foot

Betty Yardley and H. G. Emery Married in Metropolitan Church

Miss Elizabeth Claire Yardley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Yardley, 2861 Colquitz Avenue, was a lovely picture as she entered Metropolitan United Church Saturday evening on the arm of her father for her wedding to Gerald Hugh Emery, son of Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Emery, 1508 Arrow Road.

Baskets of all-white flowers were placed at the front of the church and standards of blue delphiniums and white Esther Reed daisies on the dais to create a floral setting for the ceremony performed by Rev. T. G. Griffiths. Mrs. W. B. Milburn presided at the organ and as the couple signed the register Mrs. Charles Goodwin sang "The Lord's Prayer."

A gown of white Chantilly lace over taffeta, fashioned on classically simple lines, was chosen by the bride. The fitted bodice was made with a softly rounded neckline dipping in front to form a modified V, and the crinolined skirt flared from a slim waistline to the floor.

Her fingertip veil of illusion edged with silk embroidery was caught to a headpiece of cream-toned pearls and she completed her ensemble with a matching single strand of culture pearls, the gift of the groom. Gardenias and trailing stephanotis topped the white Bible which she carried.

Miss Margaret Taylor, maid of honor, and Mrs. Per Sivertsen, bridesmatron, were gowned alike in ice-blue chiffon over taffeta. Their floor-touching dresses were styled with shirred bodices and featured soft folds of the chiffon around the shoulders and down the back in a streamer effect. They chose short white net mitts and single strand pearl chokers, the gift of the bride, to compliment their gowns. Delphiniums shaded from pale to deep blue formed their headresses and cascade bouquets.

Mr. Ron Willox of Vancouver was groomsmen and guests were shown to pews marked with nosegays of blue and white Esther Reed daisies by Mr. Kenneth Bennett and Mr. Don Robinson.

Pink carnations and white stocks decorated the Ladies' Parlor of the church where parents of the couple assisted in receiving the many guests.

For the occasion Mrs. Yardley chose a pale pink floral print dress with pink linen duster coat and hat en tone, while Mrs. Emery was in a turquoise taffeta ensemble. Their corsages were of gardenias.

The refreshment table, at which Mrs. A. E. Evans, Mrs. Emerson Smith, Mrs. Jamie Cameron and Mrs. G. A. Yardley, aunt of the bride, presided, was centred with pink and white carnations in a cut crystal bowl flanked by lighted white tapers in tall silver candelabra. Friends of the bride assisted in serving.

The bride's table held the three-tier wedding cake topped with a vase of pink rosebuds and surrounded by silver vases of pink and white sweetpeas. Mr. P. W. Gilson proposed the toast and Mrs. Goodwin sang "Through the Years."

For a honeymoon at Yellowpoint Lodge, the new Mrs. Emery chose a navy blue suit with navy shoes and purse and yellow hat and gloves. Her corsage was of yellow rosebuds. Upon return Mr. and Mrs. Emery will make their home at 361 Foul Bay road.

Out-of-town guests at the wedding included Mr. C. W. Cochrane, Camrose, Alta.; Mr. and Mrs. A. Elliot and Marilyn, Miss R. Batchelor, Mr. Ronald Willox and Mrs. A. Connelly, all of Vancouver.

BRIDGE LESSON
By Oswald Jacoby

This column usually urges you to become as good a bridge player as possible, but today's hand shows the other side of the picture. Any average player would found a logical way to go down!

West opened the king of clubs, and declarer cautiously refused the first trick. West continued with the queen of clubs, and dummy took the ace. East discarded a small spade, thus giving declarer the beginning of a count.

West discarded another low club, thus giving South a complete count on the hand. It was clear that West's six red cards were (to begin with) four hearts and two diamonds.

Most average players wouldn't notice all of this. They would cash the top hearts in the hope of dropping the jack. This plan would succeed, and they would

The expert South knew that West had started with four hearts and that East had started with only two hearts. The odds were therefore 2 to 1 that West had the jack of hearts. Hence South finessed dummy's 10 of hearts and lost the last four tricks! East took the jack of hearts, the jack of diamonds, and two spades, setting the contract four tricks.

REPORT ON RUSSIA

late hour dulls the clatter of the busy day. Midnight in Moscow is like midnight anywhere else... slackening of traffic, glittering lights and, in Russia, glowing red stars against the sky.

Modern Airport

Moscow airport is modern. Substantial, well-furnished buildings with high-ceilinged rooms, furnished in comfortable and somewhat garish mode of the Victorian period. After viewing Russian interior decoration from north to south, I decided that supreme elegance in this country meant copies of the days before the revolution when its people were cut off from a world of Victorian and Edwardian luxury. Russia still finds it to her taste.

And always Stalin, and very often Lenin, look down from their ornate gold frames from a variety of backgrounds that encompass their life and work.

There is no Russian word for efficiency, but they must have one that covers their fool-proof system. Quickly our bags were transferred from plane to cars and we were ensconced in three limousines, sisters under the hood to a Packard or Chrysler. I drew a Zim, named after the factory of Molotov. A Zis, is from factory of Stalin. They have not yet named one after Tolstoy, so that we could say they have a Zis and Zat.

After thousands of miles of travel we were at our destination, transferred on the magic carpet of the still rare Russian visa and equipped with Intourist coupons that assured us we could have a first-class hotel room anywhere in Russia, with bath, four meals a day and two daily sightseeing trips with guide and courier.

We had our first experience with the coasting driver as we covered the twenty miles from airport to city. With gasoline expensive and cars still no menace on the highways the careful driver turns off the engine as his speedometer reaches 60 m.p.h. and turns it on again when the engine slows. It is jerky, but must have some point.

The Savoy, one of the three Intourist hotels in Moscow was our destination. To this, the Metropole and the National go all those who travel under Intourist banner, including many foreign delegations, news correspondents and the visitors who have some definite reason for passing under the Iron Curtain. Several Chinese delegations were quartered at our hotel, in fact we saw scores of these Orientals... but never an East Indian.

Elegant Hotels

The Metropole, where we sometimes ate, is an old building, former stopping place of Russian merchant princes, but now dark and gloomy. National, first choice of the press, has the best dining room. The Savoy has the best dance orchestra in Moscow in fact probably in Russia, and the dining room is always gay and full.

Moscow has two elegant hotels, both owned and operated by Moscow City Council. The Moscovia has a delightful roof garden that looks towards the Kremlin. The Sovetsky, an impressive 100 suite marble lined building was completed in 1952. Here glistening crystal chandeliers sparkle on green marble pillars and divided marble staircases that might have come out of a palace. In 1956 the Ukraina, a multi-storied 1,000-room hotel will become the country's largest.

The tariff for these hotels is enlightening. A small suite... unit in Russian language... comprising sitting room, bedroom and bath, costs 35 roubles a day. A larger and more elaborate suite might be 100 roubles. It is almost impossible to translate this into our costs since the U.S.S.R. has fixed an artificial and fantastic value of our money that allows us only four roubles to a dollar. Never did we discover what the rouble was worth since its value is geared to hours of work, cost of living, etc. But the Canadian government subsidizes its Embassy officials at the rate of 25 to $1.

Costly Living

If we had not purchased our Intourist coupons outside Russia with Canadian dollars (although with a great deal of red tape and a few days wait, you can also achieve this at a State bank) we would never have been able to afford our accommodation. As it was, it cost $19 a day for all our living expenses if we ate at Intourist hotels and used their cars. When it came to shopping, the rate made it prohibitive.

Nor can you obtain a true value of what the Russian pays for his merchandise. But the fact that no more than 10 per cent is paid by the head of the family for rent and income tax, indicates that they have most of their salary for their needs. Our guide was paid 400 roubles a week, equivalent to $400 a month in our money. Her husband worked in the Foreign department and she had two children with a woman to look after them. We never did see her apartment, nor were we invited into a home. But I am sure if we had had more time, that this too would have been accomplished.

So to the Savoy for the first night. A white tunkled militia man, in red-banded cap, was at the door. There is a 24-hour guard on Intourist hotels, and we never did discover why. After a couple of days we became silent friends, with a salute from him and a "per-sholita" (please) in answer to our "spaseeba" (thank you). I also managed to obtain a picture of him later. I snapped pictures all over the country, with no interference and with much assistance by many of my Russian subjects who seemed to enjoy being in the limelight.

Like Palace

As leader of the "delegation" (an important job to a Russian) I apparently rated the best suite... by myself. It wasn't royal, but it was expansive and luxurious in its quaint Victorian way. I never did discover what the gleaming white refrigerator was doing inside my entrance hall. Its handle removed so that I couldn't open it. But I assume that it was for use of some one important enough to rate their own cook and kitchen service. I would have settled for a grand piano that two of the press girls had wedged into a corner of the room.

At 1 in the morning, my spacious sitting room, with its blue-brocaded upholstery, comfortable lounge and chairs, sparkling cut glass water pitcher, goblets and fruit dish, period desk complete with handsome marble desk set, looked like a corner of a palace. Further investigation revealed a twin bedroom, comfortable bed ready for occupancy under its white covered rug-like blanket, an adjoining bathroom and a connecting hall. True there was no plug in the wash basin, the toilet had a chain pull, but the white tiled walls and floor were sparkling and there were the biggest bath sheets that I have ever seen.

I tumbled into bed at 2 a.m. for my first night under the hammer and sickle.

Taxpayers Argue Responsibility For $1,158 Bill

PARKSVILLE — Taxpayers here are divided as to whether the village is responsible for a legal fee incurred by Martin Hocking, municipal clerk and returning officer, as a result of an error made during the December election.

The village is "obligated, morally at least, to back him up," said Thomas Hadfield of Qualicum beach at a special meeting of ratepayers.

The bill is not legally payable by the village, it was stated by R. L. Bergstrom, one of those who arranged the meeting.

Mr. Justice J. O. Wilson set the fee after a hearing at which he ruled that the returning officer had erred in certain matters. Costs were assessed against Mr. Hocking.

BIG FOUR

The Big Four foreign ministers—including Russia's Vyacheslav M. Molotov in an unusually co-operative mood—had agreed in a morning session to give the German issue top priority on a four-point agenda which also included, in this order:

European security. Disarmament. Development of East-West contacts.

The decision to give top billing to German reunification was a concession by the Soviets, who had wanted to consider first the issue of European security. And it represented a substantial strategic victory for the Western Big Three, all of whom had the German question first on their lists.

The very fact that an agenda was agreed upon in an harmonious 90-minute session of the foreign ministers was considered a good augury for the conference. Many an earlier East-West conference had collapsed in disputes over what items should be considered and in what order.

The West also appeared to have closed the door at the Geneva summit talks to explosive Far Eastern issues which Russia had threatened to bring into the discussions. The West insists Far Eastern matters should not be considered here, in the absence of Far Eastern delegates.

The foreign ministers agreed that only the items placed on the agenda should be discussed. Any other subject can be considered only if raised by one of the heads of government and agreed to by the other three.

Before the actual conference session began, the big four posed for five minutes on the close-cropped lawn on the marble palace of nations for the first formal pictures of Soviet and Western leaders together since the Second World War.

The photo itself was symbolic of the new easy spirit of East-West cordiality that both sides appeared determined to promote in spite of the still wide differences over terms for liquidating the cold war.

British spokesman Sir George Young said the agenda was agreed upon "after an amiable discussion."

Keating, Sidney to Get Automatic Phone Exchange

Keating and Sidney are scheduled for conversion to automatic telephone exchanges in 1958 or 1959, the B.C. Telephone announced today.

Planning and engineering for the changeover is already under way.

Meanwhile, a $40,000 program to provide service for many applicants in Keating is nearing completion.

300 MILES

The project includes installation of open wire as well as cable containing over 800 miles of wire.

Foreman Art Perry supervised the heavy gang that placed the cable in various parts of the Keating exchange. Dave Sharpe is now completing the splicing of cable.

When this phase is completed, improved service will be possible on many multi-party lines, BCT official said.

Current outside plant projects, including the placing of aerial and underground cable in Victoria, Albion, Belmont and Colquitz are progressing well.

These projects are being completed at a combined cost of almost $180,000 and are in addition to the central office program in Victoria which will cost an additional $850,000.

Close to $100,000 will be spent

Saturna Island Starts Vote On Choice of Ferry Service

SATURNA ISLAND—Saturna Community Club has launched campaign toward establishing a ferry service that will provide a permanent solution to the problem now dividing residents.

At a meeting in the community hall a resolution was passed to send a ballot to all residents and non-resident property owners.

It will ask:

1. Are you in favor of a subsidized car ferry to Vancouver Island?

2. Are you in favor of a general freight and passenger service to the mainland?

3. Which of these two services would you prefer if you were forced with the choice of one or the other?

Ballots will be mailed within the next 10 days.

"It was thought that this method would give everyone a chance to express their viewpoint," said J. E. Money, in charge of the project, "and the result would do much to pave the way for a lasting solution of the transportation problem now harassing the Gulf Islands."

On Tuesdays and Saturdays Saturna is connected with Sidney, and on every day but Monday and Saturday with Steveston. Service is provided by Mr. Lady Rose of Coast Ferries Ltd.

City Approves Playing Fields At Beban Park

$31,500 Earmarked for Project At Nanaimo Recreation Centre

NANAIMO—City council and parks board decided jointly Monday night to spend $31,500 on the development of playing fields at Beban Park.

Mayor George Muir made it quite clear that the money will not be spent on horse racing facilities.

The sum represents the residue of $100,000 received from Canada Safeway Ltd. for the sale of the old Central sports ground as a site for a new shopping centre.

Parks board chairman E. Blackburn said he had hoped Caledonia Park and other playing fields might receive some attention, "but we are quite content to spend the whole amount on Beban Park."

CHEAP DEVELOPMENT

"It is a question of whether we spend the money for playing fields or paying fields, and I think we must have a paying field for Nanaimo," said Mrs. Alan Hall.

She said the cost of fencing Caledonia Park would be $4,500 whereas Beban Park could be developed into a "paying" field without expensive fences.

A lease of Beban park for a nominal annual fee is being drawn between the city and Vancouver Island Exhibition Association with the aim of encouraging development of the park into a full-scale horse-racing centre.

SPEEDY ACCESS

The new highway outlet north from the city passes the park, and is almost ready for hard surfacing. When completed it will bring the park within six minutes of the city centre.

England gave us a secret

Some 100 years ago the bartender of Pimm's Restaurant of London invented a tall drink which he called Pimm's Cup. To this day, the formula for this delectable gin drink is still a secret. Try it — it's the coolest, most refreshing long-iced gin drink you ever tasted.

Here's a simple way to enjoy Pimm's No. 1 Cup: Take 2 oz. of Pimm's No. 1 Cup; charge with lemon soda or gingerale; add a slice of lemon, a thin slice of cucumber rind (if available) and serve well iced.

Send for free 34-page recipe booklet to P.O. Box 308, Station B, Montreal.

Shortage of Midway Shows Hampering Fair Programs

DUNCAN, (CP)—Vancouver Island fairs are reported to be hampered in arranging midway shows due to lack of a proper circuit.

Directors of the Cowichan Agricultural and Industrial Exhibition, to be held Sept. 8-10, learned from letters that Nanaimo, Saanich, Courtenay and Comox are also having difficulty getting midway booked.

W. J. Lamb manager of the Comox Valley Fairs Association, said in his letter that the old circuit No. 1 for island fairs may be in operation next year. This year all island fairs are relying on service club members to operate concession booths and rides.

City Scholar-Athlete Wins Governor's Medal

A Victoria High School student today was named winner of the Governor-General's Silver Medal awarded for highest marks attained in Grade 12 examinations in B.C. in June.

John Arthur Stewart Smith, rugby and football player, is the sixth Victoria district student in the last seven years to win the medal.

Education Minister Ray Wiliston announced he will receive a Chris Spencer Foundation award of $225, a general proficiency scholarship from the University of B.C. for $175. He also is eligible for a special Chris Spencer Foundation scholarship of $2,000.

Young Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Stuart Smith of 1255 Oscar, had the highest standing with 93.4 per cent. Next highest was Tove Leon Rome, of King Edward Senior High School, Vancouver, with 92.4.

Other Greater Victoria award winners are: Sarah Granville Eliot, 1667 Yale Street, an Oak Bay Senior High student, with next highest standing in Greater Victoria; Chris Spencer Foundation Award, $225, and General Proficiency Scholarship of $175.

Ambition Is Doctorate in Physics

Smith, who hopes to become a doctor of physics, marked his 17th birthday June 28. He plans to attend Victoria College and then the University of B.C.

When informed of his awards by the Times, he exclaimed: "I can't believe it!"

The husky Shamrock junior lacrosse team centre, who also plays rugby for Oak Bay Wanderers, is working as an office messenger for the B.C. Electric for the summer months.

He is one honor student who doesn't believe in homework. "I didn't study at home at all last year, until the last few weeks," he said.

"There are too many other things to do."

He gave credit to his teachers, and said "they were the reason I made it."

The Vic High student's father

and has not decided what to do when she finishes school, although she hopes to attend the University of Toronto.

Her father, Lieutenant-Colonel W. E. C. Elliot, is a retired British army officer. Sarah was born in England. The family has lived in Oak Bay since 1949.

The Oak Bay Senior High student also gave credit to her teachers, saying "they are very good," and like Smith, didn't do too much homework.

SAANICH CLERK

Valerie Squance, with highest marks in Area 13, was born in Edmonton, the eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John L. Squance. She is working at Saanich Municipal Hall as a clerk during the summer.

Valerie hopes to become a nurse, or to take up medical library work. She plans to attend Victoria College and UBC. The Royal Oak award winner was in Grade six when the family moved to the Island seven years ago.

She attended Mount Newton until Royal Oak School was built three years ago. Valerie has always had high marks in school work, and is described by her parents as being "a very studious girl."

Her father is in the commercial spraying business, and the family lives on a 100-acre farm.

Catherine Elizabeth Ann Millward, 485 Lambert street, Nanaimo, won a Royal Institution Scholarship of $200 for placing second highest in the province in Grade 13 examinations.

Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Millward, she was born in Edmonton 19 years ago, and went to school in Langford and Esquimalt from 1942 to 1951, when she moved with her family to Nanaimo. She attended Nanaimo High School.

Her average was 89.3 per cent. She intends to attend the University of Alberta in the fall, with the hope of winning her B.Sc. degree in nursing.

At Central Junior, one of his classmates was Sarah Eliot. Sarah is also 17 years old.

Bulganin Rejects Plea For German Unification

4,000 MEN, PLANES BATTLE FOREST FIRES

TORONTO (BUP)—Approximately 4,000 forest rangers and civilians pressed into emergency service fought 96 forest fires in Ontario today. Sixteen of them were out of control, including a 50,000-acre blaze in the Sault Ste. Marie district, the largest fire in the province.

Fifty aircraft and three helicopters also fought the flames. A United States Forestry Service plane with special water-bombing equipment was dropping water on the Sault fire.

The weather forecasts indicated no break in the warm, dry weather. The fire danger rating was "high to extreme."

Casablanca Simmers Under Armed Truce

CASABLANCA, Morocco (AP)—Comparative calm returned to this North African port city today after four days of bloody rioting between Europeans and Moroccans. Thousands of armed troops patrolled the narrow streets enforcing an uneasy truce between the European colony and the natives.

French officials put the death toll at 64, but other sources estimated the total dead—mostly Moroccans—might run as high as 200.

In the only violence reported on Monday, the bodyguard of a local Arab chieftain was killed by a bomb. The chief's wife was injured.

Both Arab and Jewish shops were closed in the native quarter of the city. Buildings set afire earlier still smouldered. Police said a number of Jewish women had been attacked and stripped of their clothes by Arab women.

The violent rioting broke out after a terrorist bomb killed seven Frenchmen Thursday night.

During Bastille Day festivities on July 14 mobs of European colonists retaliated with attacks on Moroccans and violence spread rapidly.

Hume, Gervin Will Testify Before Probe

VANCOUVER (CP)—Mayor Fred Hume announced today he will testify before the royal commission investigating charges of corruption and laxity in the Vancouver police department.

The inquiry adjourned last Thursday for at least 10 days to await the recovery of Det. Sgt. Len Cuthbert, in hospital with a self-inflicted gunshot wound.

Cuthbert, the key figure in the hearing, is reported in "good condition" in hospital.

Mayor Hume asked council for "leave of absence" from his civic duties during August but said he would make himself available to testify before the royal commission if he was asked to appear.

Monday, labor leader R. K. Gervin said he will volunteer to testify before the probe.

Mr. Gervin was accused last week by former detective Jack Whelan of "running a real game," described as one of the biggest "round-the-calendar gambling enterprises in the city."

Desmoureaux, apparently mystified by all the tumult and shouting, described the election as "most peaceful."

Police Chief Richard Raymond was arrested by the special constables early in the day on the grounds that he was "partisan" and had disturbed the peace. He was released later. But Raymond was no longer

Shopkeeper Gladly Gives Ike Credit

GENEVA (UP)—President Eisenhower became the centre of a minor mob-scene in downtown Geneva today when he went shopping for toys for his three grandchildren.

Mr. Eisenhower faced a moment of temporary embarrassment after making his selections, when he discovered he had no Swiss currency.

The shopkeeper charged the purchases, gladly.

Mr. Eisenhower sped into Geneva from his suburban villa at Crues-de-Genthod for a conference at the American delegation headquarters in the Hotel du Rhone before attending the afternoon's Summit meeting.

He stopped off at a small toy shop on the banks of the swirling Rhone River in mid-Geneva to "shop for my kids."

Russian Farmers Make Hit in Iowa

DES MOINES (AP)—Twelve visiting Soviet farm leaders set out today for a long cross-country drive across Iowa. At its end there's a country picnic waiting for them.

It's at the farm of Mr. and Mrs. George Hora. This couple, with their two children, occupy 160 acres which they own themselves and from which they reap rich harvests of pork, eggs, corn, oats and hay without any hired help.

Perhaps the most important news out here today is that the Russian agricultural big shots are making a hit.

Delegation leader Vladimir Matskevich has turned out to be an exceedingly able diplomat with a turn for the right phrase at the right time.

CAMERA, ROSES

They presented amidst applause a bouquet of roses and an album to Mrs. Richard L. Allemen, whose home they visited Monday. They gave Allemen a fine Russian-made Leica-type camera.

The four Des Moines college girls who thought up the idea of painting in Russian a well-come sign for the Russians' arrival at the Des Moines airport Sunday were presented with bouquets of roses by the visitors.

Ike Makes Direct Appeal To Zhukov to Accept NATO; Promises No U.S. Aggression

(From AP and BUP Dispatches)

GENEVA—President Eisenhower today appealed directly to his old friend, Soviet Defence Minister Georgi Zhukov, to help speed unification of Germany, but Premier Bulganin said the time had not come for unification.

The two leaders expressed their views at the third meeting of the "summit" Big Four conference, which earlier in the day had given top priority to the German problem.

After today's discussion, the Russians proposed that the problem be dropped and that the leaders move on to another question. The next item on their agreed agenda was European security.

They finally decided to let the foreign ministers of the four powers consider the matter Tuesday morning and report back on procedure for continuing the German talks.

Eisenhower had appealed to the Russians, particularly Zhukov, to accept his word as a soldier that the United States would never be a party to an aggression and that Russia had nothing to fear from the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

Bulganin replied that he accepted Eisenhower's words and promises but that since the president had left NATO headquarters some individuals had made statements contrary to his as to the aims of NATO.

Bulganin added: "Conditions are not yet ripe for the reunification of Germany. The task of reunifying Germany must be realized in a different way to that proposed by Britain, and it should be decided in its good time, step by step."

Prime Minister Eden said in the meeting that all of the Big Four had agreed on the principle of German unification but there were differences over timing and method. He quoted from Bulganin's speech Monday to the effect that creation of an effective security system in Europe would establish the necessary precondition for uniting Germany.

Mayor Hume asked council for "leave of absence" from his civic duties during August but said he would make himself available to testify before the royal commission if he was asked to appear.

Monday labor leader R. K. Gervin said he will volunteer to testify before the probe.

Mr. Gervin was accused last week by former detective Jack Whelan of "running a real game," described as one of the biggest round-the-calendar gambling enterprises in the city.

Bulganin Proves Cool To Eisenhower's Plea

(From AP and BUP Dispatches)

GENEVA—President Eisenhower today appealed directly to his old friend, Soviet Defence Minister Georgi Zhukov, to help speed unification of Germany, but Premier Bulganin said the time had not come for unification.

The two leaders expressed their views at the third meeting of the "summit" Big Four conference, which earlier in the day had given top priority to the German problem.

After today's discussion, the Russians proposed that the problem be dropped and that the leaders move on to another question. The next item on their agreed agenda was European security.

They finally decided to let the foreign ministers of the four powers consider the matter Tuesday morning and report back on procedure for continuing the German talks.

Eisenhower had appealed to the Russians, particularly Zhukov, to accept his word as a soldier that the United States would never be a party to an aggression and that Russia had nothing to fear from the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

Bulganin replied that he accepted Eisenhower's words and promises but that since the president had left NATO headquarters some individuals had made statements contrary to his as to the aims of NATO.

Bulganin added: "Conditions are not yet ripe for the reunification of Germany. The task of reunifying Germany must be realized in a different way to that proposed by Britain, and it should be decided in its good time, step by step."

Prime Minister Eden said in the meeting that all of the Big Four had agreed on the principle of German unification but there were differences over timing and method. He quoted from Bulganin's speech Monday to the effect that creation of an effective security system in Europe would establish the necessary precondition for uniting Germany.

Bulganin, in his opening address, said:

Eden Says Red Way Too Long

Eden said there were different types of security pacts and that the all-European system proposed by Bulganin would take a long time to develop. He suggested that his proposal for a pact of the Big Four plus Germany would provide a quicker and simpler way. That, he argued, would speed the formation of conditions for uniting Germany.

Premier Faure, who served as the chairman today, began the afternoon's discussion with a plea also for German unity in the shortest possible time. A unified Germany is essential, he said, and any unusual delay would mean no unification at all.

Bulganin said that he recognized the importance of German unification but repeated that a united Germany would depend on a Germany free from existing military obligations and a Germany which would not undertake new obligations from the West or with NATO.

REPORT ON RUSSIA TODAY

By RETA MYERS

Victorian, Edwardian Luxury Apex of Taste to Russians

(Reta Myers, well known British Columbia newspaperwoman, was the leader of a party of 11 Canadian newswomen which has just returned from an 11-day visit to Moscow. Mrs. Myers continues a series of articles for the Times on her visit.)

It is hard to get a true perspective on Russia. As I look back on the 11 days I spent in that monument to Communism and try to sort out my impressions, I am faced on all sides with the tremendous impact that their single-mindedness has on the Western viewpoint.

What can you think about a country whose 200 million people are so devoted to an ideal that it allows no deviation from the pattern set by its rulers... who are regimented into a mold where the state and individual is one. Where everything on the surface is smooth and pleasant but where the inscrutable Oriental mind shuts you off from things it does not want to explain?

Looking back on that first night in Moscow, I find that a pattern was laid on which all our visit was based. We were tourists, a new breed of animal to the average Russian, shut off from all contact with the outside world. We were also journalists who would doubtless write and broadcast thousands of words about them and their country.

If we had supervision, if our rooms were wired, or if our actions were reported in voluminous dossiers labeled "Eleven Canadian Women"... we will never know. We were always free to come and go as we pleased, as long as we allowed our guide to show off the country.

It is always a thrilling experience to enter a new city at night when glowing lights soften the solid outlines and the
